RALPH McGILL

He Ate the Turnip Greens

We were arguing at such a great rate that the Rt. Hon. Alfred Robens, of the House of Commons from Northumberland and a minister of Labor in the Attlee government, ate right through the first serving of turnip greens ever put before him, a dish which usually causes the visitor to our shores to recoil in dismay.

Three hours later I put a mental tag on him as one of the men most likely to be heard from in Britain's political future.

At 40 he was selected by Clement Attlee, then Prime Minister, as one of his undersecretaries. Today he is a member of the "Shadow Cabinet," the leadership group maintained by the Labor Party.

He was born in industrial Manchester, England. At 13 he quit school to go to work. His first job was with an umbrella manufacturing plant. He went into a trade union and within a few years was its executive head. During the war the Churchill coalition government used him as a labor troubleshooter in the great war plants, and he had great success. At war's end his party's representatives at Northumberland selected him as a candidate. He won by 17,000 votes. When the Churchill government was returned to power in 1951, Robens' constituency reelected him by more than 20,000 votes.

Lessons

A great admirer of Winston Churchill, he believes that the great Conservative leader will retire at least within a year for reasons of health.

"What about nationalization and the Labor Party's future plans?"

"We learned a lesson. We found that what looked so simple—nationalization of all key industries—was not simple. We learned, and we admit, that a mixed economy, with certain industries under the government, others operating under private management, and still others subject to whichever form seems best suited to their localities and needs, is the better system. This is just what the Churchill government has done.

"And," he added, "it is what this country is doing and what any large country must do as its resources lessen and it finds it necessary to depend more and more on imports and exports. I find a surprising amount of necessary socialism in this country.

"I was interested in how often President Eisenhower qualified his state messages. In health, for example, he said that he was unalterably opposed to socialized medicine, but advocated a form of national insurance. It must be noted that while the Eisenhower administration went into office against controls, it is comforting the people who fear a recession by telling them a great many federal control plans are ready 'when needed.' "

Europe

Among other things, he believes there must eventually be a new approach to the Russian issue. The Labor government still supports rearmament because only from strength can a nation seek a new tact. He believes France will come into the European Defense Community. When she does he believes the time for the new plan will have arrived. He would then ask the Russians to agree to a free election in Germany on the problem of unity, and then delay rearmament of that country for a period of 10 years to allow a new generation to grow to maturity free of the military caste. Britain fears a rearmed Germany, under the old military leaders. France fears such a prospect even more. We forget that Russia, too, fears it. Continued rearmament cannot be the final answer.

He believes that had the Western nations recognized the de-facto Red China regime, we might have made another Tito of Mao Tse Tung.

British recognition failed, he thinks, because the Reds believed it was a plot for the U.S. to stay out—and for England to supply it with "intelligence" on Red plans.

Next stop on his journey is Williamsburg, Va. He wants to see what the colonies were like when they declared their independence of Britain.

Polk Legislator Charged in Fight Before Talmadge

Constitution State News Service

CEDARTOWN, Feb. 7—M. M. Cornelius, 41, Polk County representative and Cedartown political leader, has been charged with assault and battery in connection with a fracas in the presence of Governor Talmadge here Thursday afternoon, Deputy Sheriff J. B. Williams said tonight.

FREE ON BOND
Rep. M. M. Cornelius

Cornelius was arrested Friday on a warrant signed by Polk County Atty. Henry Stewart, who charged the representative with hitting him three times.

Stewart said he first decided not to press charges "because of the bad publicity it would mean for Cedartown—the governor being present at a brawl." He said he filed the charge Friday because Cornelius had called his home several times Thursday night "and threatened me."

DENIES THREAT

Cornelius, who reportedly directed profanity at other witnesses, including the governor, during the altercation in a courthouse conference room, tonight denied threatening Stewart. "That's definitely wrong," he said.

The legislator said the reports of profanity "will have to be brought out in court."

Cornelius said he had been invited to a dinner Thursday at which the governor was to speak, but that on arriving he found he "didn't have a place to sit." He held Stewart responsible for this, he said, and it provoked him to "slap" the attorney.

"LITTLE PEOPLE"

He said he hit Stewart after the attorney told him he represented "little people."

Witnesses said Talmadge was making a telephone call in the conference room when Cornelius came in and hit Stewart at least three times before others in the room could stop the fracas.

Many civic and political leaders attempted to keep the story from the press because Talmadge was on the telephone trying to encourage a new industry to locate here, it was reported. Talmadge was making the call at citizens' request.

Deputy Williams said that when he arrived on the scene in answer to a call "the trouble was over." He said Stewart was asked if he wanted to take out a warrant against Cornelius, but that Stewart said "no."

Williams said he escorted Cornelius from the room. "He had been drinking, I wouldn't classify him as being drunk," the deputy said.

"REMARK"

A short while later, during dedication ceremonies in the courtroom for the new county health building, Cornelius made a "remark" about Stewart, according to Williams. When Cornelius was introduced, he made derogatory remarks about Stewart, Williams said.

Talmadge, who was introduced by Stewart at the ceremonies, was not available for comment on the altercation.

City Solicitor Dan Winn said Cornelius is free under $500 bond. He said the case will come up for trial in City Court in April.

U.S. Studies 'Lost' FBI Spy Reports

By JAY WALZ
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—Atty. Gen. Brownell said today that the Justice Department is reviewing for possible prosecution the cases of all persons mentioned in the FBI reports on the late Harry Dexter White and other alleged Communist spies.

He also disclosed that the 1945 FBI report on espionage naming White had been found among 20,000 "lost" papers and documents during a department housecleaning last fall.

"TERRIBLY SHOCKED"

He was "terribly shocked," the administration's top law enforcement official told a television audience, to find this document "pushed in a desk drawer without ever having gone through the regular legal channels of the Criminal Division of the department.

Brownell was interviewed on the CBS program Man of the Week.

Earlier in the day, a subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee made public testimony showing that an aide to Brownell had given congressmen the same information in secret last December.

Brownell said the FBI in its exhaustive investigation of Soviet espionage rings in the United States in 1945 had reported "many, many names." He was asked whether the Justice Department is still considering prosecuting any of them.

"WE CERTAINLY ARE"

"We certainly are," he replied.

The attorney general did not name them, but said they were "extremely important" cases, and would rank with the White case, which Brownell set off in a luncheon address before a group

900 Collapse Trying To See Elizabeth II

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 7 (AP)—Nine hundred persons, including many children, collapsed from the heat today while waiting to see Britain's Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh attend services at St. Andrew's Cathedral.

The cathedral chapter house was turned into a first aid station to attend victims of the long wait in the sunshine with the thermometer at 82 degrees.

The Queen, wearing a simple white frock and white hat, and the duke, in a lounge suit, drove to the cathedral in an open car amid cheering thousands lining their route.

A crowd estimated at 100,000 who waited long hours along Sydney's north shore later today for a glimpse of the royal couple was disappointed. A rumor the Queen would visit Palm Beach, 25 miles from Sydney, proved untrue.

'CRIME OF PASSION'

Author Bodenheim, Wife Slain in Slum

By DAN GURAL

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Maxwell Bodenheim, 64—famous novelist of the Roaring Twenties and one of the last of the Greenwich Village Bohemian poets—and his attractive third wife were found mysteriously slain today in a shabby Third avenue tenement.

The couple had been beaten, stabbed and shot to death. There was no sign of a murder weapon in the ransacked room.

HIS THEORY

Chief of Detectives Thomas Neilson said robbery was not the motive. He indicated police believed it was some sort of crime of passion. Chief Inspector Stephen Kennedy and other top police brass went to work personally on the strange case.

A sign reading, "I am blind," was found in the towdry room, and friends of the once internationally-known poet said he had been so poor in recent years that he had worn the sign on the streets soliciting money although he was not blind.

MAKES NEWS

Bodenheim, a strikingly handsome man in his youth, made headlines in the 20s when one girl poet committed suicide and another tried to take her own life because he had rejected their writings.

His novels, "Replenishing Jessica" and "Naked on Roller Skates," brought him international fame in the jazz age.

The bodies of Bodenheim and his wife, the former Ruth Fagin, 35, whom he married three years ago, were identified by Dehirsh Margulis, Greenwich Village artist who had known the poet since 1917. Margulis said Mrs. Bodenheim had been working on and off as a typist for artists. Bodenheim had not worked at a regular job for years.

SELLS POEMS

Bodenheim had been making money by writing poems in Greenwich Village barrooms, autographing them and selling them for 50 cents.

"Bodenheim had no enemies. It must have been a crime of passion," Margulis said.

Police were questioning the poet's friends and neighbors for a lead in the slaying.

Human Torch Sets $100,000 Fire in Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP)—A human torch set off a three-alarm fire at the Red Top Cab and Baggage Co., in downtown Miami today, causing damage estimated at more than $100,000.

Daniel Molina, about 35, ran screaming from the building "looking like he had been hit by a flame thrower," and was taken to a hospital with second and third degree burns. His condition was critical.

Dozens of taxicabs were waiting and drivers were milling around the building ready to change shifts when the fire broke out. Cabs were being filled with gasoline.

"Molina was standing on spilled gasoline and was filling a cab," one driver said. "Then a spark—from a cigaret or somewhere—ignited the gasoline and a sheet of flame shot up where Molina was standing."

Other drivers heard Molina's screams and saw him running through the rear of the building.

"They were yelling at him to stop, to roll on the ground—but he wouldn't listen," said Trudy Bjork, a driver. "They finally knocked him to the floor and rolled him in coats and sweaters."

Dispatcher George Becker said damage to 40 automobiles alone might reach $120,000 and "there were several new Cadillacs and about a thousand tires on the second floor" of the two-story building on South Miami Ave.

Norway Breaks Espionage Ring Near NATO Hub

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 7 (AP)—Norwegian security police said tonight they have broken up a foreign espionage ring operating in the vicinity of northern headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The official announcement said the ring had been under surveillance in the Oslo area for some time and that a "number" of arrests were made last week.

7 Killed in State Traffic, 2 as Truck Leaves Ferry

Seven persons were killed over the weekend in Georgia traffic accidents, the State Patrol reported last night.

Last reported fatality was Broadus Hall Cochran, 31, of Lyons, who was killed yesterday morning about two miles south of Oak Park on U.S. Highway No. 1.

State troopers at Swainsboro said Cochran apparently was driving at a high rate of speed when he lost control of the car.

Four persons, two of them Atlantans, died in traffic mishaps Saturday.

Eugene Talmadge Hammond, 21, of Marietta, and Robert McNeal Lyons, 40, of 730 Darlington Circle, NE, were killed when their cars met head-on near Dobbins Air Force Base.

Rogers Burton, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Burton of 1776 Briarwood Circle, NE, was killed on Georgia Highway 27 near Vienna when he was struck by a car while crossing the highway.

Two Florida Negroes, Douglas Bell, 25, and Douglas Lee, 31, both of Bascom, Fla., were killed in a freak accident in Seminole County Saturday night.

The State Patrol said the men were passengers in a truck which had been driven onto a Chattahoochee River ferry on Georgia Highway 91.

The truck's brakes failed, troopers said, and the vehicle plunged into the river.

A Birmingham, Ala., man, William Wallace Vanderford, 43, was killed Friday night when his tractor-trailer wrecked on a curve near Elberton.

Vanderford lost control of the truck and was thrown from the cab into a tree, the patrol said.

West Sets Indochina Talk Price

BERLIN, Feb. 7 (AP)—High officials reported tonight the Western Allies have set a price for negotiating an Indochinese peace with Red China: The Peiping regime must cooperate first in a Korean settlement or else stop arming the revolutionary armies of Ho Chi Minh. And the West wants action—not promises.

The American, British and French foreign ministers are expected to make this plain to Russia's Vyacheslav M. Molotov tomorrow in the course of the first secret session of the Big Four Conference.

OTHER DECISIONS

U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault were also reported determined to:

1. Fix a deadline for their vain discussions on a German settlement—unless Russia is prepared to modify her demands.

2. Rebuff a Molotov effort to win immediate international recognition for the quick-shooting government of Mao Tze-tung. The Russian statesman sought such recognition by proposing Red China be brought into a Big Five parley to consider global problems.

3. Confine all international attempts to bring about world disarmament to the United Nations. Molotov himself came up with an idea nearly two weeks ago for a world disarmament conference under U.N. auspices to include Red China and other non-members.

ENTER 3RD WEEK

The ministers, with three aides and an interpreter each, kick off the third week of their conference in the conference room of the Allied Control Administration Building in the American sector here.

For the past week they had been meeting in the Hall of Mirrors of the Soviet Embassy in the Communist sector.

All have agreed to explore whether Russia, in the absence of a German settlement, is ready to reduce tension in Asia, and whether they can set a test of Red Chinese peaceful intentions.

New Quake Strikes After Lull in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 7 (AP)—Another earthquake shook Southeastern Mexico tonight following a lull of almost 24 hours in the series of shocks which have destroyed homes, churches and office buildings.

A military radio report said the latest quake was sharp but caused no damage in the Chiapas state capital of Tuxtla Gutierrez.

State authorities said property damage in Chiapas was "considerable," but reported no fatalities.

LEADS FRENCH ATTACK
Gen. Rene Cogny

Surrounded French Rip Reds in Raid

HANOI, Indochina, Feb. 7 (AP)—French Union forces poured out of the fortress of Dien Bien Phu today and, although outnumbered, inflicted heavy losses on encircling rebel troops.

The French have been waiting inside the fortress for 79 days for an all-out attack by some 40,000 Communist-led Vietminh troops camped around the post.

Today, France's aggressive commander, Gen. Rene Cogny, sent "several battalions"—4,000 to 5,000 men—out of Dien Bien Phu into a hand-to-hand battle against grenade-hurling rebels surrounding the fortified plain. A French spokesman said many Reds were killed or wounded and conceded there had been some French losses.

These were indications today's action might herald the start of the long-awaited battle for Dien Bien Phu. It was believed the French initiated it because the Vietminh's 38th Division has quit the area to spearhead the thrust towards Luang Prabang.

Pope Rallies, Stomach Quieter, Doctor Reports

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 7 (AP)—Ailing Pope Pius rallied today. The 77-year-old spiritual leader of more than 400,000,000 Roman Catholics still is feeble and anxiety continues over his condition because of his age and the toll taken of his strength by two weeks of serious illness.

But in the most heartening communique since the pontiff was stricken Jan. 25 by a stubborn stomach ailment, his personal physician and faithful friend, Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, today announced:

"The Pope last night slept rather well. Signs of improvement are noted in the condition of the stomach, which is quieter and less disturbed. However, in his general condition there continues to be considerable weakness."

Potato Crop Failure Fans Uprisings

By JOSEPH FLEMING

BERLIN, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Communists rushed 40,000 police reinforcements to Berlin today and fortified strategic points in major cities as a potato famine threatened to fan East German unrest into open rebellion.

The 40,000 Peoples Police, one-fifth of the nation's entire force, patrolled the city while East German and Soviet tank units rumbled closer to Berlin. Officials were storing arms in strategic places including the city hall.

VOTE DISPUTE

East Germans already were reported to be angry because the Soviet Union has turned thumbs down on a Western proposal for unifying Germany through free elections. Disclosure that the bitter European cold wave froze the East German potato crop increased that anger.

Grain and meat already were in short supply and the Communists evidently felt that any more belt tightening would set off a new wave of strikes and anti-government demonstrations that could reach the proportions of open revolt.

Western sources said the food situation was so grave the East German government sent a delegation to Moscow to plead for Soviet aid. Only the fact the foreign ministers are meeting in Berlin now kept East German Premier Otto Grotewohl from making a personal plea to the Kremlin, the sources said.

FOOD SOUGHT

Appeals to Hungary and Bulgaria went unheeded because those Communist nations are short of food.

Western officials said only large shipments of food from the Soviet Union or other Eastern zone satellites could prevent a food shortage worse than that which touched off a major revolt last June 17.

The threats of famine added to an already explosive situation in which workers openly demonstarted for free elections to unify Germany and threatened to march on Berlin where the Big Four is meeting, according to some reports reaching the West.

The Communists turned strategic points into bastions to meet the threatened rebellion and rushed arms and ammunition to their newly formed militia.

The U.S. High Commission newspaper Neue Zeitung said the Communists were caching arms in the East Berlin City Hall.

Fair, Warmer Forecast Here

Fair and slightly warmer weather is forecast today and tomorrow for the Atlanta area. The temperature is expected to rise to 56 this afternoon after a morning low of 28 to 32 degrees.

The U. S. Weather Bureau predicted tomorrow's high reading will be 60 on top of a low of 34.

Yesterday's temperatures ranged from 31 to 49 degrees.

875 Fires in 4 Days Sweep 17,000 Acres

A forest fire burned some 300 acres of timber near Woodbury Saturday night and yesterday in one of a series of wildfires which continue to plague timberlands throughout Georgia.

The Woodbury fire was detected around 10 p.m. Saturday night. Firefighters battled it until 6 a.m. yesterday morning before finally bringing it under control, Guyton DeLoach, director of the Georgia Forestry Commission, reported.

DeLoach said that firefighting units from Upson and Harris counties joined the Meriwether units in combating the blaze.

Other fires reported yesterday were four in Hall County which burned some 40 acres of woods Saturday and another covering around 30 acres in Spalding County.

During the past four days, 875 wildfires have occurred over the state resulting in the loss of approximately 17,000 acres of valuable forestland, DeLoach said.

"In the first district, over 3,000 acres were burned, including 800 acres in Emanuel County alone. The second district, in the Camilla area, suffered a loss of over 5,000 acres when 77 fires were reported in southwest Georgia," the director added.

"This tense situation seems to exist on a statewide basis but much of the loss occurred in districts one, two, three, four, five and eight," he said.

The major fire in the second district burned in Early County, starting in Alabama and crossing a river trestle into Georgia to burn 800 acres of forestland and destroy two houses, a barn and a cane mill.

About 768 acres have been reported lost in the third district, 4,741 in the fourth and 2,634 in the fifth.

GIs Dread 'Dear John' Most, Chaplains Say

RAMSTEIN AIR FORCE BASE, Germany, Feb. 7 (U.P.)—American servicemen in Europe worry most about getting "Dear John" letters from home, chaplains agreed today.

Eight uniformed "sky pilots," interviewed at an Air Force chaplain's conference, rated soldier morale and morals in Europe as excellent, but they said bad news from home wrecks a serviceman's spirit.

The chaplains said GIs here worry most about:

1. Faithfulness of their wives and sweethearts.
2. Sickness at home.
3. The financial state of their loved ones.

"It wrecks a man's spirit to get a letter—signed or unsigned—rumoring that his wife or girl friend is running around," said Maj. Walter Sullivan, Lake Forest, Ill., Catholic chaplain at the Sembach Air Base in Germany.

"Bad news from home absolutely floors a guy," said Col. Constatine Zielinski, chief Air Force Catholic chaplain in Europe. "Then he's absolutely useless to the service."

The chaplains agreed that the average American "adjusts pretty well to the differences of customs and languages in Europe.

"Some of our men gripe now and then, and a few go wild for women and liquor," said Maj. H. John Donnelly, Cambridge, Ohio, Protestant chaplain of Tempelhof Air Force Base.

"Remember, though, that we work with the age group that usually produces the largest number of delinquents," pointed out the Air Force Jewish chaplain for France, Lt. Col. Samuel Rosen of New York.

The chaplains agreed that airmen would rather be stationed in Germany than in France or Britain.

"Germany is the plum because it's the country most like home," said Zielinski. "There exists a natural affinity between American and German—our men like the way Germans 'get the job done' logically and energetically."

Mau 'Brigadier,' 17 Others Killed In Gun Battle

NAIROBI, Kenya, Feb. 7 (U.P.)—British security forces today killed the Mau Mau leader "Brigadier Batu Batu" and 17 of his henchmen in a running gun battle in terrorist-infested woods around Karatina.

The "brigadier" was one of the three colorfully-named leaders of a gang that terrorized tribesmen in the district.

Gang leader "Gen. China" was captured and last week was sentenced to death. The remaining member of the trio —"Gen. Tanganyika" is still being sought by troops and security police.

Ike Pleads For Positive Acts of Faith

Follows Worship In 'Lincoln Pew'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—(U.P.)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower worshipped today from the "Lincoln pew" of a Presbyterian church and then he called on Americans for "positive acts" of faith.

The President, a member of the National Presbyterian Church here, chose to worship at the New York Avenue institution today because Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday anniversary is next Friday, worshipped there.

Immediately after the memorial services, Mrs. Barney Balahan of New York presented Mrs. Eisenhower a letter written by Mary Todd Lincoln to Queen Victoria in 1865, shortly after the War Between the States' president was shot to death.

LEGION MOVEMENT

Mr. Eisenhower later joined the American Legion's "Back to God" movement and called on Americans for "positive acts of renewed recognition" that faith in God "is our surest strength, our greatest resource."

The "Back to God" movement was started in 1951 to honor four chaplains who went down with a troop ship in World War II after giving their life preservers to four soldiers.

The President noted that throughout history Americans have had "their foundation in faith." He said "on the battlefield of Gettysburg . . . Abraham Lincoln recognized that only under God could this nation win a new birth of freedom.

"Today, as then," he said, "there is need for positive acts of renewed recognition that faith is our surest strength, our greatest resource." He called the Legion's program "such a positive act."

SAME PROBLEMS

Dr. George M. Docherty, the minister, said the U.S. faces the same issues today as it did in Lincoln's Day. He said this problem is freedom—blocked in Lincoln's time by Negro slavery and halted today by the slavery of communism.

He said Lincoln found the answer by calling on the U.S. to solve the problem "under God." He said he believes Mr. Eisenhower is using the same religious approach in his efforts to thwart "atheistic communism."

Mrs. Balahan, wife of the president of Paramount Pictures, gave Mrs. Eisenhower the Mary Todd Lincoln letter in brief ceremonies at the White House. It was a personal gift from the Balahans.

Mr. Eisenhower, speaking from the White House, joined Protestant, Catholic and Jewish leaders in seeking public support of the Legion movement. The program was televised nationally from New York.

Indian Guards Sailing Home From Inchon

SEOUL, Monday, Feb. 8 (U.P.)—Indian troops begin leaving Korea today after three months of tense duty guarding war prisoners who refused to go home and were released.

A contingent of 1,600 troops sails today for India from Inchon Harbor. The remaining 4,000 Indian custodial troops will leave by Feb. 17.

The troops travel by rail from the neutral zone to the harbor under heavy guard of American soldiers and South Korean police to prevent possible incidents with South Koreans whose government often has denounced India in the past.

Costa Rican Chief Marries New Yorker

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Feb. 8 (U.P.)—President Jose Figueres, American-educated coffee planter who has twice held top authority in Costa Rica, was married last night to Miss Rita Karen Olsen, a social worker from Yorktown Heights, N. Y.

The wedding ceremony, which Figueres tried to the last minute to keep secret, was performed by Roman Catholic Archbishop Ruben Odio Herrera at the home of Figueres' brother, Antonio Figueres.

Figueres is 47, and his pretty blonde bride is 23. She is his second American wife. He was divorced last Jan. 1 from the former Henriette Boggs of Birmingham, Ala., by whom he had two children, age 10 and 8.

Sponsors at last night's ceremony were the bride's mother, Mrs. Karen Beck Olsen, and Figueres' father, Dr. Mariano Figueres. The bride was led to the altar by her father, Walter Olsen.

Mrs. Figueres' parents are Danish-born naturalized U. S. citizens. She was born in Copenhagen.

Murray Asks $1.25 Wage Floor

Would Cut Week To 35 Hours

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (U.P.)—Sen. James E. Murray (D-Mont) announced today he will introduce an "anti-recession" bill tomorrow to raise the minimum wage to $1.25 an hour and eventually cut the hourly work week from 40 to 35 hours.

Murray, top Democrat on the Senate Labor Committee, said his measure also would bring several million more workers under the federal minimum wage law. He specifically cited farm workers and employes in food processing, retail and transportation industries.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) and Rep. Richard Bolling (D-Mo) also announced they will introduce legislation tomorrow to provide "more effective planning" of public works projects in event of a deepening recession.

Murray denounced as "fantastic" Eisenhower's assertion in his recent economic report to Congress that any increase in the present 75-cent minimum wage should await a time when the national economy is more able to absorb it.

Since the President's report went to Congress, it has been disclosed that the administration is considering a proposal to raise the minimum wage to $1 for all workers now covered and to extend the present 75-cent limit to several million not now covered.

6 Blasted Into Space From C47 Are Rescued

TALKEETNA, Alaska, Feb. 7 (U.P.)—Six survivors of an Air Force C47 crash near Mt. McKinley Friday were flown back to civilization today and said their transport exploded, hurling them out into space.

All six parachuted to safety while the plane crashed in the rugged snow-covered country near Gold Creek, 30 miles north of here.

An Air Force helicopter and a bush pilot flew two of the survivors to Talkeetna and four to Curry, 125 miles north of Anchorage, where emergency rescue headquarters have been set up.

They were brought uninjured to safety while planes hovered over the crash area and ground rescue teams on snowshoes searched for additional survivors among the 18 persons aboard the two-engined plane when it crashed.

Cliff Hudson, a bush pilot who first spotted the wreckage, said the survivors told him they were lying on the floor of the plane when an unexplained explosion ripped open the fuselage and flung them clear.

The C-47 crashed in freezing rain Friday while on a routine flight.

Another bush pilot, Don Sheldon, who sighted three survivors trudging through waist-deep snow yesterday, flew an Air Force doctor to Gold Creek to treat them.

Jaycees Push Air Markers

By RICHARD ASHWORTH

Armed with pails of yellow marking paint, stiff brushes—and strong backs, the Georgia Jaycees' State Aviation Committee has set out to have air route markers installed in "every sizeable town in Georgia" near airplane flight paths and airports.

Initiated last year with help of the Southeastern "99ers," women fliers' organization, the drive resulted in Georgia's being among only 10 states that completed air rout markers during 1953.

Working with the help of its 58 Junior Chamber of Commerce organizations in the state, the aviation committee was successful in completing air markers atop Stone Mountain, at Fort Valley and at Cochran.

WORK UNDER WAY

Work is under way on markers at Thomasville, Marietta, Valdosta, Americus and Statesboro.

Heading the air marking drive is B. Victor Hewes, 31-year-old College Park commercial airlines pilot who flew the famous "Spitfire" fighter planes with England's Royal Air Force during World War II, and married a Georgia girl in 1942 while training U.S. pilots at Macon. Jack Rogers of Atlanta is co-chairman.

Hewes points out the markers are of little use to commercial pilots who have flown routes so regularly they know the land by heart. Main purpose of the markers is to aid military and private pilots.

"They get lost all the time," he said. "A private pilot can leave Atlanta in a small plane and if he doesn't know his way about, he can get lost in 10 minutes.

"Military pilots in high-speed jet planes easily get lost, since a small miscalculation of direction can carry them miles off their course in a short time."

The aviation committee is emphasizing the placing of air markers at any small town along regular air routes and with small airports nearby. Markers are not necessarily needed, however, near large airports, Hewes emphasized.

SEE RUNWAYS

"Pilots can see the runways from miles off," he explained.

But small towns with grass landing strips should place markers on landmarks or buildings indicating direction of the airport and distance, the chairman emphasized.

Hewes recalled that in the early 1940s, there were little or no markers in the state and pilots who lost their way often swooped down low over small towns and read the town names off water tanks.

"We even had instances of men going down low enough to read the names off the fronts of railroad stations, and that's getting pretty low."

He said at least two student fliers were killed while flying low attempting to discern their location.

Backed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the air route markers drive last year resulted in 220 markers being installed in the U.S. Illinois, which installed 112, was leader in the drive.

The markers usually are painted atop flat-roofed buildings with surfaces which need little or no yearly re-painting or repairs. Roofs surfaced with metal, concrete, tile, wood or slate are usually considered suitable. Gable roofs may also be used if the slant of the sides is not too great, Hewes said.

Another Good Man Offers for Governor

Fred Hand of Pelham, who has been a member of the State Legislature since 1931, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination as governor in the primary of this fall.

He joins Charles Gowen of Brunswick as the second candidate to offer.

Like Gowen, he brings to the campaign a record of personal and political honesty and integrity. There is no pardon racket or any other political scandal in his background.

There is no evidence anywhere that he ever used his legislative position to benefit himself or any organization with which he has been connected. He has never sought to be all things to all men in a debased effort to win votes. He has never associated himself with any corrupt practice. His family is an old and honored one in the state.

In the Legislature he has been a firm friend of the public schools. He has, in his years as member and speaker of the House, revealed his awareness of the state's problems and her future needs.

Candidate Hand also has demonstrated his ability as a businessman. He thus possesses two fine assets, administrative ability and political know-how. A good businessman isn't enough for the governorship.

We have not always agreed with all of Mr. Hand's policies, but we have never at any time doubted his integrity and ability and his devotion to the state. He has proved it—as has Charles Gowen—by never associating himself with any of the rackets and corrupt practices which have made other names offensive in years past.

Fred Hand and Charlie Gowen meet the test.

Let's look carefully at the next who offer.

B'nai B'rith Women Complete First Decade

B'nai B'rith Women of Atlanta this week celebrate the 10th anniversary of their joining with women all over the nation as a chapter in a great Jewish organization dedicated to service to humanity.

The Atlanta chapter, which now has a membership of 700, will observe the occasion with several special events including a Founder's Day luncheon today.

In the decade of its existence B'nai B'rith Women of Atlanta has participated in national and international projects and has served well at home, too. The organization has fostered an appreciation of the privileges of women in a democratic pattern and it has urged an acceptance of the responsibilities of citizenship.

Women of B'nai B'rith have provided transportation to children in the Cerebral Palsy School. They have been active in assistance to Battle Hill Haven. They have operated a baby clinic and served in a thousand other ways to make Atlanta a better place in which to live.

Grateful for what they have done, we wish them a happy 10th birthday and decades without number in which to grow in their many fields of useful service.

Who'll Buy Our Old Obsolete Atom Bombs?

House investigators who are criticizing the Army for still holding onto Spanish-American War saddles shouldn't be too critical. After all, nothing is permanent and the disappearance of the horse cavalry may be only a passing fancy.

Who can blame the Army men, anyway? Torn as they have always been between alternate periods of hunger and plenty, the armed forces are wont to keep as much as possible on the pantry shelves for the lean years. The saddles may be an extreme example of what not to keep, but none can blame the Army for trying to stay prepared.

It was perhaps an understatement to say that the "military departments operate an uninspired surplus-disposal program." But outside of their natural reluctance to part with their possessions, the armed forces must consider the poor manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers and a whole host of others in dumping surplus goods on the market. After all, government undergoes constant criticism for any interference with free enterprise. Dumping goods—even saddles—on the market brings a hue and cry for military scalps.

Oh, well, one of these days the cry will be about the atomic bombs that we're now supposed to be storing about the world. They'll be declared surplus when some such new weapon as the cosmic ray renders them obsolete.

And that brings up the question, who will want to buy an obsolete atomic bomb? We'll just have to let the House find the answer to that question, too. In the meantime, they should investigate ways and means, so future probers will have something to guide them.

New Grady Hospital Will Fill Great Need

Congratulations are in order for the Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority and the people of both counties for the fact that the new Grady Hospital will soon be a reality instead of a dream. It was a job that needed to be done and one that the people have willingly accepted responsibility for.

Completion of the hospital in 1956 will give Atlanta one of its finest developments healthwise in this century. It will provide a nucleus for progress in fighting disease, not only for Fulton and DeKalb, but for the whole state. It will offer opportunities for training long needed and medical facilities that a metropolitan area this size could not longer do without.

We again congratulate the Hospital Authority, without whose patient and painstaking efforts the new Grady Hospital would still be a dream. We add further commendation to the people of Fulton and DeKalb counties for their realization of need and their willingness to foot the bill.

Dr. Oglesby Approaches His Quarter Century

When yesterday morning he appeared in the pulpit of the Central Presbyterian Church, Dr. Stuart Oglesby entered upon the year which will round out a quarter century as minister of one of Atlanta's most useful churches. This is true for a number of reasons, a devoted, dedicated congregation which seeks out jobs a downtown Christian church may do and a lively awareness of a fact which Christians sometimes forget—"by their works ye shall know them."

All of this, of course, reflects the pastor. Like his church, Dr. Oglesby is one of the most useful and dedicated ministers Atlanta has, or has ever had. He has sought to apply the tenets of his belief to people, and the physical church property is a busy headquarters.

He came in 1930 when most churchmen were seeking to move out of the downtown areas. Almost everywhere membership in such churches was declining. This was, and is, true in Sunday school attendance. Central Presbyterian has grown substantially. One of its ministries is a baby clinic. Operated without regard to creed, it has served almost 20,000 babies since it began in 1922.

There are many other activities which testify to the church's usefulness and awareness of Christian needs. We join with all others in noting this anniversary and in saluting Dr. Oglesby, one of our most valuable ministers and citizens.

Spring Fire Season Threatens Our Forests

Come February and March and nature conspires against man and the forests.

In the woods as the wind rises, it often happens that the humidity drops.

Georgia is approaching that condition now. A combination of high winds and dry weather sends lookouts into high towers to watch for the slightest sign of a fire. Ground crews are on the alert ready to go fight it.

The public can help by being careful with campfires and trash burning and the ubiquitous match and cigarette butt.

Georgia wants no repetition of the frightful forest fire toll of last fall. The state need not have another disastrous forest acreage loss if the public will only heed warnings from the men who keep an eye on the fire hazard gauges.

Raise by Any Other Name Is Still Sweet

Congressmen torn between trepidation and anticipation are reported aquiver at the prospect of a pre-eletcion vote on a hefty pay raise for themselves. News stories portray them as floor-pacing by night and nail-gnawing by day.

Where is their old-time political ingenuity? Elementary psychology should shed all such shudders. Contrary to axiom, a rose can not only be deodorized and discolored, it can be dethorned.

Look at it sensibly. What does a mere doubling of congressional pay do? Thanks to graduated rates, it usually triples or quadruples the tax bill. So the recipient is not milking the Treasury, he is manifolding his remittances to it. He is contributing more fully to the national defense, the federal budget and a dynamic economy. Patriotic no end.

Besides, do they want to be Congressmen forever?

State Dental Association President Says Fluorine Helps Fight Against Tooth Decay

Atlanta—On behalf of the officers and members of the Georgia Dental Association, I wish to thank you for your editorial policy on fluoridation.

Georgia dentists, being unable to cope with the rate of tooth decay that exists in our state today, have repeatedly endorsed the idea of fluoridation, which is adjusting the fluorine content of drinking water up to one part of fluorine to one million parts of water.

President,

Marriage Psychology Is Not That of Cow

Atlanta—It's enough for a writer to glorify sex and make it the all-important consideration of marriage but all such writings should meet the requirements of decency. Marriage relations should not be analyzed from the standpoint of cow psychology and writings upon the subject by one Dr. George W. Crane were most disgusting.

Voters Should Sign Party Loyalty Pledge

Greenville—The best news to those of us who believe in good government and majority rule is the statement from our Mr. Peters in The Sunday Journal-Constitution that the voters would be required to sign loyalty pledge. Unless it goes like the registration law the legislation passed and Gov. Talmadge never could wake up in time to sign into law.

Gov. Craig Invested His Money Wisely

Cairo—Governor Craig of Indiana is a politician who knows his way about.

The Indianapolis press was making much ado about a hound dog supposedly trapped in a drainpipe. The landowner refused to allow any digging on the grounds that his tiling would be ruined.

Gov. Craig posted his personal bond for damages, but the dog was not in the drain. It was a good political investment for the governor.

While dogs do not vote they have many warm friends who do.

Radio Auction Nets $2,000 for Polio

Lanett, Ala.—I would like you to know what one community did for the polio drive.

For the second consecutive year, they gave a radio auction here in the valley, under the supervision of Jim Murphy, manager of Radio Station WRLD, who originated the idea for the valley.

With the assistance of staff members and volunteers, he worked all day and into the wee small hours of the next.

All prizes were donated and proceeds this year went well over $2,000. Given in the Athletic hall, bids came in fast by phone and from the audience.

There were many other type drives here and near by including a carnival which netted $320.

New England Scout Executive Has Good Time in Atlanta

Editor's Note: Harold Williams, nationally known Scouting speaker and Scout executive of Providence, R.I., spoke recently at annual Scout banquets in Atlanta. In an open letter he gives one Yankee's impressions after a visit to our city. We are happy to present it as Atlanta prepares to celebrate Boy Scout Week starting March 7.

Thanks, Atlanta, you were mighty good to me and I'll always remember you. Your cheery greetings—"Hi ya, boy!" "Whenja get in?" "Whenya leavin'?" "We're glad to have you with us," "Come back real soon"—still ring in my ears.

You dazzled me with your new clothes—tailored by General Motors and Lockheed and all the rest; your showy accessories of expressways and power lines, and the jewels of lovely homes set among your hills.

You showed me Five Points, with Confederate flags flying, and Peachtree St., and Henry Grady, and reminded me of battles and burning — without rancor, and talked of Tara and "Gone With the Wind." And you brought me there on the 147th birthday of Robert E. Lee and let me share with you that beautiful editorial in The Constitution—"Lee, Traveler Ride Out of the Mists," and I was glad, because he belongs to all of us.

I saw all the color of your streets, and your stores and all the hotels and eating places—and those smooth women. You fed me well — country ham (Talmadge brand, maybe) and red gravy, grits and hot biscuit and sweet rolls, and fried pie—and that delectable steak Moe Goldman bought me in the cellar of the old Imperial—and those "bottomless" cups of coffee.

Coyly, you hid your best smiles under dripping fog, but you warmed me enough to make me regret that heavy New England overcoat.

And you never let me forget I was in Coca-Cola town. I heard it in elevators and in clubs and saw so many Coca-Cola people, including "our representative in Rome, Italy" (home for a breather, I suppose).

How proud I was of Scouting in Atlanta Area—of its growth, its emphasis on district organization, its wonderful report of progress and its hopes for tomorrow.

And I enjoyed all your big folks — earnest President Bill Wardlaw, who entertained so graciously at the city club; solid Commissioner Stovall, with his Ike smile; charming Ivan Allen, with his felicitous tribute to the Scout leaders; and Perkerson and Ridley and Lander and Christen and Daniel; and Papy, decorating his Beavers, and Ellis, with his "This thing ain't over yet"—and Moe-Go, the irrepressible enthusiast.

You showed me how splendidly your Negro people have taken up Scouting and you gave me the inspiration of addressing that happy "seated reception" of the divisions. . . . And you showed me your excellent Negro executives in action. . . .

Most of all, Atlanta, you let me get to know better "Country" Gorman (Atlanta Area Scout executive), loving his fellowmen . . . telling his stories, "building up" his associates, saying the thoughtful thing, working all the time for Scouting and for boys, and being Mr. Southland himself.

Plot Thickens In Guatemala

Things are popping again in Guatemala. Two American correspondents have been expelled as unfriendly to the government and the United States ambassador has hurried back to his post from Washington where he was in conference with the State Department.

The ambassador is John Peurifoy, one of State's most effective negotiators and maneuverers. Mr. Peurifoy is a South Carolinian, and has handled many difficult post-war problems for us, including Greece. The fact that he was assigned to Guatemala in place of the usual anonymous bureaucrat or dangerous amateur of a political appointee speaks for the seriousness of the situation.

From the point of view of Pan-Americanism, hemispheric solidarity, mutual understanding and other mouth-filling cliches of the moment, politics in Guatemala has been going from bad to worse. The government claims to be of, by, and for the people, but evidence continues to mount that it is controlled by the Communists and is up to no good as far as we are concerned.

Guatemala is a lovely and picturesque country which lives by export taxes on coffee and bananas are the business of the United Fruit Company, the nation's largest employer. United's operation has been hard hit by confiscatory and restrictive legislation. Coffee is raised by the plantation system in much the same manner that the sharecropping South produced its cotton. The government has been clipping the coffee people too, and what it plans to use for income when exports decline is its worry and the hope of its enemies.

The government of Guatemala poses as a popular front, agrarian reform, friend of the people sort of regime, and its intentions may have been sincere once. It is obvious however that it has been captured by the Communists and its aims perverted. If this perversion could be confined to the country itself the situation might not be so bad. But the Reds are using the nation as a center for operating in many other vulnerable Caribbean and Central American countries and colonies. Cries of alarm are being raised in neighboring capitals, and today Guatemala is the villain in the family of small states that form a strategic land bridge between the North and South American continents.

United States nationals and properties have been taking quite a beating and Washington must have struggled mightily to preserve a calm and judicial attitude. In simpler days the same actions would have brought the fleet and the Marines in a hurry. Strong arm stuff is no part of the new diplomacy, a good idea in times when the sound of one shot fired is carried around the world in a matter of minutes by the propaganda agencies of competing ideologies.

The fact that Mr. Peurifoy is on the job there is significant. It means that Washington is fully aware of the gravity of the situation, and it might even mean a bloodless, quiet change of course to the right by the formerly very pro-United States republic.

Bus Trip Brings Talk on Tips

Usually, I do not converse with strange women.

But there was nothing strange about the one on the bus. She was young and neatly groomed, she looked perfectly normal. Besides, when I had trouble folding the newspaper, she snickered.

"Maybe you would like to see what you can do with part of it," I said, shoving her a section.

She read silently a moment. Then she said, "Seems like Atlanta is having lots of murders." I agreed that the city has many homicides, in fact, that the number is a cause of grave concern.

"Seems like some people can't stay out of trouble," she said. "A man who roomed where I live wouldn't pay his rent and the landlady locked him out. Then I saw in the paper that he had been arrested on four charges, loitering and forgery and I don't know what else. He was a smart man, too, well educated. Left a lot of books at the house.

"It's not right," she went on. "Some folks want a good education and can't get it. And some get it and then let it go to waste."

She went back to the paper. After a little while, she asked the time. I told her what it was.

"I'm already 10 minutes late to work," she said.

She said she worked at a drive-in as a car hop.

No, she said, the customers were no problem. They might be hungry as wolves, but nearly all of them acted like gentlemen otherwise. In the summertime, the teen-age boys might get a little fresh. But when one persisted, "How about taking you home, honey?", she said, "See me in a couple of weeks." She had said, "My husband is coming for me" until the boys found out she didn't have a husband.

Yes, there is good money in car hopping, she said. That is, most of the time. The girls get tips and nothing else. Most customers are thoughtful and generous.

"We soon learn the ones that don't tip," she said. "You can just about bet they are the ones that want the most attention. Sometimes it takes five or six trips. We toss coins to see who has to wait on them."

I said, "Here's where I get off." Not that I was offended by the reference to non-tippers, but the bus had come to my stop.

The ride had been a full 15 cents' worth — 21 blocks of Atlanta streets and a look at life on the side.

Lyons Citizens Met With One Accord

I have wondered how it would feel to have my name on a theater marquee like the movie stars. Now I know. It happened down in Lyons where I was the other week for a revival. Instead of advertising the moving pictures, Billy Yarbrough, the manager of the Pal Theater, put up big letters about our services.

That is just an example of the kind of cooperation we had in Lyons. Rev. Walker Whaley is the pastor there and the people love him so much that whatever he undertakes everybody joins in to help.

Mrs. Troy Smith, the church secretary, really looked after things. Harry Rhoden, editor of the Lyons Progress, gave the revival big front-page headlines and also sent stories about it to the papers in surrounding counties.

The school superintendent, H. H. Brinson, let us have the night services in the big school auditorium and was on hand to see that everything was just right. Ernest Trapnell, the local funeral director, sent over the organ and chairs from his chapel. All the merchants of the town put big signs in their windows and most of them closed up for the morning services.

Mayor Harry Thompson made available all the facilities of the city and also helped lead the singing. Dr. Fred Smith, pastor of the Lyons Baptist Church, was on hand at every service as were the people of his church. Also, the pastors and members of all the surrounding churches supported the meeting so enthusiastically that instead of a Methodist meeting, it was county-wide.

WVOP, the radio station in Vidalia, broadcast our services and for weeks before had announced them frequently, all this without charge. Mrs. T. Ross Sharpe assembled a fine choir and with Mrs. Eula McNatt at the organ and Charles McCall at the piano, we really had good music.

The Board of Stewards under the leadership of their chairman, A. V. Mazingo, was on hand in a body at every service, shaking hands, ushering, "toting" chairs, and taking care of the situation. H. R. Yandle, teacher of the Men's Bible Class and who had been a teacher in my own church in Atlanta before he went to Lyons, did a lot of personal promotion for me which helped a lot.

We had such large attendance that not only did we fill the school auditorium to overflowing, but they put loudspeakers in the church across the street and filled it, also. Throughout the week there was a marvelous spirit; it was the Spirit of the Lord.

I thought about those first Christians at Pentacost. When they got together "all with one accord," the Spirit came upon them and they had a great revival. During the week in Lyons I kept thinking how wonderful it is to forget denominations and petty rivalries and for all to unite in one great effort for Christ. If communities would work together like that all the time, marvelous things would be done.

GOP Can't Win On Ike's Coattails

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 — The Republican Party is raising a bigger fund than usual for expenses in the campaign in the hope of electing a Republican majority in Congress next autumn. But it will do little good unless the party can erase the impression, fostered to no small extent by the White House staff itself, that President Eisenhower is politically superior to the Republican Party.

The habit of turning up noses at the Republican Party with the illusory contention that the 1952 election was won primarily because of the popularity of Mr. Eisenhower, and that his party is supposedly discredited, would be natural if it came from the Democrats. But it comes also from some newspapers and magazines which supported Ike last year and still think he can be pictured as the sole source of strength to his own party.

An editorial in one such magazine said recently: "It's time these Republican reactionaries—many businessmen among them—who are trying to make a god of what they think is the Republican Party, were told that the American people don't give a damn about that god. And furthermore that their god never existed."

This is the kind of preachment that will make it easier for the Democrats to win Congress.

It is good strategy, as Vice President Nixon and others in the Republican leadership have begun to point out, to say that a vote for a Republican Congress is a vote to uphold the hand of President Eisenhower and to give him a chance to complete his program. But it isn't good strategy to assume that by relying wholly on Ike's popularity his voting strength can be transferred to the Republican Party this year in a congressional election wherein the name Eisenhower doesn't appear anywhere on the ballot and the Republican emblem does.

The fact that Mr. Eisenhower ran ahead of his ticket in 1952—something that has been true of the winning candidate for the Presidency except in 1948 — doesn't prove that the people didn't care to vote for Republican nominees for Congress last year. All one has to do to disprove this is to point to the case of Sen. Lodge, Mr. Eisenhower's original campaign manager, who was defeated for reelection in Massachusetts.

Political parties have room in them for all kinds of opinion and when one faction begins to read the other out of the party, exhibiting an intolerance of dissent and indulging in name-calling toward its own members, then a totalitarian attitude begins to prevail which can only weaken, if not destroy, such a party.

State Asks Public Aid in 'Arson Fight

By ALBERT RILEY

Incendiary fires are on the increase in Georgia, according to the State Fire Marshal's office, which has requested the public to cooperate in the detection of arson.

Fire Marshal F. E. Robinson and Lucius Vaughn, an experienced arson investigator, both said yesterday that there has been a noticeable increase during the last three months in requests from over the state to investigate fires of questionable origin.

FORMIDABLE PROBLEM

State Fire Safety Commissioner Zack D. Cravey describes arson as "one of our most formidable problems." To successfully combat it, he says, "we must have the cooperation of every citizen, because the arsonist strikes when least suspected."

Robinson fears that arson may increase more in the months ahead, and Vaughn says an increase in incendiary fires is more likely to occur if economic conditions are on the downgrade.

The staff of arson investigators working over the state has just been increased to five.

Although a downtrend in economic conditions might result in a greater number of cases of arson to defraud insurance companies, this is by no means the only cause of incendiary fires. Many fires are deliberately set for malicious spite or revenge, and many others are set by persons with mental quirks just for thrills.

Arson is one of the hardest crimes to prove and obtain a court conviction on, although the penalties for arson were stiffened by the Legislature a few years ago.

COOPERATION

Cravey says it would help if more persons would be as prompt and cooperative as a Dawson woman who recently became suspicious of strangers she saw drive into a neighbor's backyard. She called the police, who found the occupants of the neighboring house gone but the house afire with strong evidence of incendiarism. Firemen quenched the blaze and the police were enabled to begin an immediate investigation while the trail was still hot.

Robinson said the public can help immeasurably by promptly reporting any suspicious fires and coming forward with any information that might lead to apprehension of an arsonist.

A number of public buildings such as schools and churches have been set afire in recent months, and Vaughn says school fires have been noticeably on the increase. He attributes them in part to spite growing out of jealous fights over school consolidation.

In one northwest Georgia town four fires had occurred in one building, the last one causing damage of about $150,000. After investigators went into action, a young man confessed that he set all of the fires during periods of nervousness, officers said.

This young man was from a fine family and had been an honor graduate from his high school. His parents were astounded at his confession. Psychiatric treatment was provided and the young man cured of his obsession for setting fires.

CHURCH GREW TO 18,000 MEMBERS

Dr. Oglesby of Central Presbyterian

Dr. Oglesby Celebrates 24th Year With Church

By LAURA BARRE

A man who took over the pastorate of one of Atlanta's historic downtown churches at a time when most downtown churches were moving out to the residential areas celebrated his 24th anniversary as pastor of that church yesterday.

Dr. Stuart Oglesby took over the pulpit of Central Presbyterian Church the first Sunday in February, 1930. Under his leadership the church has proved what can be done when a congregation refuses to give up.

"There was a time when some people thought this church no longer had a community to minister to," Dr. Oglesby said. "But we have found that instead of a residential area, our community is made up entirely of people who are interested in our work, no matter where they live."

NEW FOLKS—OLD ZEAL

"There are more people to minister to here now than ever before," he added, "although they are not the same class of people that lived in this neighborhood when the church was built."

"The church is maintaining its membership, replenishing its losses and increasing its efficiency," he said.

When Dr. Oglesby first came to the church it had a membership of 1,300. There are almost 1,800 members now.

Then, the Thursday evening prayer service had an average attendance of 150. Now more than 300 come to the Thursday night family service.

BIG SUNDAY SCHOOL

And, although as Dr. Oglesby said, "a downtown church is not expected to be able to have an active Sunday School," he can visit any Sunday morning some 700 active members attending classes in the church's educational building.

Located directly across the street from the State Capitol at the corner of Washington and Hunter streets, SW, Central Church is proud of its location, and intends to keep sinking its roots deeper into the site on which it was established almost a century ago.

The church's members live in Buckhead, Ben Hill, Clarkston, Duluth, Hapeville, Avondale, Smyrna and other "far out" places, as well as in Atlanta, Dr. Oglesby said. And even those who live farthest away are active in church programs all through the week, not just on Sundays.

Women of the Church and Men of the Church groups meet on weekdays, and weekday afternoons supervised recreation programs for boys and girls are carried on.

BABY CLINIC

One of the church's most outstanding ministries is its baby clinic, begun in 1922. Some 18,782 babies, who otherwise could not have received the medical attention they needed, have been treated there.

The thing that Dr. Oglesby is perhaps proudest of in his entire pastorate at Central Church is the lovely chapel which the church dedicated in 1951.

Intended primarily to be a place where working people could go for prayer and meditation during the day, the chapel is a perfect setting for weddings, prayer services and other occasions when the congregation is small.

Since he began his pastorate at Central Church, Dr. Oglesby has not limited his activities to serving his own congregation. He has served as moderator of Atlanta Presbytery and the Synod of Georgia. He was the first president of the Georgia Council of Churches, organized in 1952, and has taken an active part in the Atlanta Christian Council, serving as president and as a member of several committees.

He is the author of "Presbyterianism in Action." "Becoming a Member of the Presbyterian Church," "The Baby Is Baptized" and several books of sermons, including "The Light Is Still Shining," "What Is Your Need?" "A Practicing Faith," "You and the Holy Spirit" and "Think on These Things."

Law To Assure Tax Pay Sought

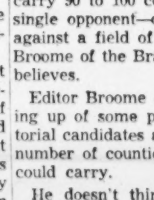
By M. L. ST. JOHN

Georgia's county commissioners may try some method other than tax receipts to catch persons who aren't paying property taxes on their cars. The commissioners have tried in vain to get a law passed requiring motorists to pay property taxes on motor vehicles before being issued a license plate by the state.

The recent Legislature passed a bill requiring motorists to produce the receipts for property tax payments on their cars in order to obtain their license plates. Gov. Talmadge vetoed it on the grounds it would be too much trouble for car owners.



John Sammons Bell, attorney for the commissioners' association, puts much of the blame on House Speaker Pro Tem George Smith II, for blocking passage of a substitute bill which the Governor could have signed. Then Bell suggests that perhaps the commissioners should give up the idea of tax receipts and look for another method of stopping this tax evasion.

Writing in the current issue of "County Commissioners Comments," Bell concludes: "In view of the strong and determined opposition which has characterized all our attempts to secure passage of our tag bill, when coupled with the veto after passage, I am constrained to the view that we should re-examine the question and seek a solution in some way other than the requirement of tax payment receipts. Whatever such a solution may prove to be, find it we will—and the loophole in automobile ad valorem taxation will be plugged."

Broome Predictions

If State Highway Chairman Jim Gillis runs for Governor, he could carry 90 to 100 counties against a single opponent—or more counties against a field of candidates, Carl Broome of the Brantley Enterprise believes.

Editor Broome does his own sizing up of some potential gubernatorial candidates and estimates the number of counties he thinks they could carry.

He doesn't think Lt.-Gov. Marvin Griffin could carry over 30 or 40 counties. Broome thinks gubernatorial candidate Charlie Gowen will carry only four or five counties. A supporter of M. E. Thompson in past races, Broome said he thinks the former acting governor "has shot his bolt" and couldn't muster as many votes as he did in previous races which he lost.

That's the editorial report from Nahunta.

No Speaking Plans

Georgia's First Lady isn't interested in delivering public speeches despite the fact that she took a course in speaking at the Atlanta Division of the University of Georgia. Mrs. Talmadge recently has received invitations to deliver three addresses. She begged off on the grounds that public speaking isn't her field.

State Lists Sales Tax Deductions

Georgians making out their state income tax returns may use a standard table of deductions for state sales taxes paid during the year, Assistant Revenue Commissioner Vaughn Rice said yesterday.

The table follows:

Persons whose net income is under $1,000 per year will be given credit for having paid 1.8 per cent of this amount in sales taxes.

$1,000 TO $2,000

Persons with a net income of from $1,000 to $2,000 will be given credit for paying 1.7 per cent.

Net income of $2,000 to $3,000 will get credit for 1.4 per cent.

Net income of $3,000 to $5,000 will get credit for 1.2 per cent.

Net income of $5,000 to $10,000 will get credit for 1.1 per cent.

Net income of $10,000 to $15,000 will get credit for 0.9 per cent.

$15,000 TO $20,000

Net income of $15,000 to $20,000 will get credit for 0.7 per cent.

Net income of $20,000 to $30,000 will get credit for 0.6 per cent.

Net income of $30,000 to $50,000 will get credit for 0.5 per cent.

Persons with net incomes of more than $50,000 annually will get credit for having paid 0.4 per cent in sales taxes.

ACCEPTABLE FIGURES

This table of percentages will be accepted by the Revenue Department without question.

However, it does not prevent Georgians from claiming deductions for a greater percentage of sales tax payments, Rice pointed out. If they had an unusual amount of purchases covered by sales taxes during the year, they may itemize these purchases and claim the actual amount of sales taxes they paid instead of using the table, he said.

Deadline for paying state income taxes without penalty is March 15. Forms may be obtained from the State Revenue Department, Fifth Floor, State Office Building.

60 Pct. Rabies Drop Credited to Inoculation

By ANNE GOWEN

While Chicago authorities are carrying out drastic measures to combat a rabies epidemic there, Fulton County authorities, pleased with results of their free dog inoculation campaign last summer, report a 60 per cent drop in the number of rabies cases here in the last six months.

Dr. M. M. Neel, director of county medical services, said only 12 cases of rabies were found in July-December, 1953.

He contrasted this with the 28 cases reported during the first six months of 1953 and 29 cases in July-December, 1952.

ONLY ONE CASE

Only one rabid dog has been reported here this year—a German shepherd which had not been vaccinated against rabies. The big dog suddenly attacked his master and escaped from his leash, but was shot by a neighbor in the Hapeville area before he injured anyone, Dr. Neel said.

The county is not planning to give free inoculations this year except in areas where rabies break out, Dr. Neel said. Last summer the county set up neighborhood clinics at which 32,663 dogs received anti-rabies shots.

Dr. Neel reported that the county's seven dogcatching trucks brought in 1,090 stray dogs during January.

Of these, 916 were destroyed, 19 were adopted by Atlanta families and 155 were bailed out for a $2 pound fee by their owners.

PICKUPS INCREASE

His records show considerably more dogs are being picked up now than before the county leash law was passed. In January, 1953, only 690 were impounded.

The initial flurry of complaints about loose dogs seems to have ended, Dr. Neel said.

At the beginning of last month county dogcatchers were swamped with about 500 complaints a day, but this has dropped off to about 200 a day, he said.

"At first it seemed to be a matter of the shrubbery-lovers against dog-lovers, but it's calmer now," Dr. Neel commented.

He attributed the drop in complaints to the fact that "people have realized the law is being enforced and they are penning in their dogs to comply with it."

'Inexpensive' Color Adapter For TV Sets Demonstrated

BETHESDA, Md., Feb. 7 (AP)—A 24-year-old inventor today demonstrated a television attachment to produce color pictures on present black and white sets.

The device was shown to reporters at Airtronic Research, Inc., where the inventor, Robert P. Benjamin, is a junior electronics engineer.

'IT WORKS'

The demonstration was the first public showing of the adaptor. However, FCC Commissioner George E. Sterling said he has seen it "and it works."

Joseph Butler, president of the Small Research Co. said the attachment could be built for $50 to $100 for 16-inch screens.

He said the attachment could be plugged into present standard TV sets with four simple connections to certain tubes. Butler said it picks up color programs that are broadcast on the new transmission signal approved by the Federal Communications Commission last month.

'INEXPENSIVE'

It transforms pictures into color by means of a spinning "color wheel" and electronics equipment. Butler called the adaptor an "inexpensive way of letting people have color" during the changeover period while regular color sets are being built.

He said his firm has no present plans to manufacture the device but might license it out for production by other manufacturers if it draws a "good reaction."

Benjamin's adaptor was made from an old electric fan motor, colored plastic, and various tubes and electronics parts that he "threw together" in early January. In the demonstration it was placed in front of a regular TV receiver and produced in color a program (Howdy-Doody) broadcast in color from New York. The colors appeared rather dark, but Benjamin said they could be brightened with "further work on the device."

Song Writer by Accident, Arlen Says

By ED SULLIVAN

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 — Harold Arlen, songwriting star who penned "Over the Rainbow" for Judy Garland, "Cabin in the Sky" and "Stormy Weather" for Ethel Waters and such other delightful items as "Black Magic," "Let's Fall in Love" and "Blues in the Night," tells me he became a songwriter by accident.

"I wanted to be a singer," laments Arlen. "Back around 1927, when I was in vaudeville, I did all right as a singer — at certain shows."

Your reporter asked why Arlen specified "certain shows." He grinned: "Well, in those days, Flo Ziegfeld had restricted the public performance of the song 'Whoopee' but when the vaudeville house manager wasn't in the theatre, I'd sneak 'Whoopee' into my repertoire and, honestly, I'd kill the audience with it. Then the manager would storm backstage, the next show, and threaten to kill me in cold blood so I'd drop the song and without 'Whoopee' I'd be a big flop. Ziegfeld ruined my career as a singer."

Then how did he become a songwriter?

"A complete accident," revealed the Buffalo, N.Y., kid who made good in the big city. "I'd played piano and served as arranger for Arnold Johnson's band in 'Scandals,' so Vincent Youmans asked me to sit in at the piano when he was rehearsing his 'Great Day.' That's how it happened."

Your reporter said he didn't follow the explanation.

"Well," said Arlen, fingering his moustache, "when a pianist is waiting for a singer to start, he vamps on the piano, hits a few notes or a musical phrase in the same key as the song. You've often heard a singer tell the pianist: 'Vamp 'till ready'.

"At rehearsals, I used to vamp and then I started improvising, adding notes to the vamp. Some of the Negro singers in 'Great Day' used to comment on the notes I was hitting. They said it sounded real good.

"So I extended the vamp into my first song, 'Get Happy', which I wrote with Ted Kohler. And that's how it started."

"Over the Rainbow," which he wrote for "Wizard of Oz" and Judy Garland, pretty nearly never got into the picture. "Nearly everybody at the studio said the song was too slow. It was cut out of the picture no fewer than three times. If it hadn't been for Arthur Freed, MGM producer who had selected me to write the score, Judy Garland never would have been heard singing it in the film."

Arlen laughed: "That often happens, particularly with my songs. When I wrote 'Blues in the Night', the singer in the show refused to sing it and the music publishers said it would never go. When I wrote 'Black Magic' for 'Star-Spangled Rhythm,' it didn't catch on for a long, long time. Most people don't even remember that Johnny Johnston introduced it in that picture or that Vera Zorina danced to it. They just remember that Billy Daniels sings it."

Arlen is in town presently to collaborate with Truman Capote on a new musical. He says Capote is very easy to get along with. Up to their meeting here this week, they'd corresponded via recordings which Arlen air-mailed from the West Coast, because he was too busy to get East.

"Well," said the songwriter, "it's a long, long cry from the days when I was attending PS 32, in Buffalo. My dad, who died just a year ago, was the cantor at the big Buffalo synagogue so I guess I came by my musical heritage directly from him. A funny thing—the president of the synagogue had a son who was a Buffalo newspaperman. The newspaperman became a famous songwriter, Jack Yellen, who does all of Sophie Tucker's material, as you know."

"You'd still rather be a singer?" I asked him.

"No," he said. "Maybe Ziegfeld did me a favor."

Soviet Shifts Bosses In 3 More States

Malenkov Viewed as Securing Position With Trusted Aides

LONDON, Feb. 7 (AP)—The Kremlin shook up the Communist party in two more Soviet republics today—Moldavia and Kazakh. There also was a shift in the governing hierarchy in Lithuania.

The changes in command, disclosed in Soviet radio broadcasts heard here, appeared at first glance to herald the launching of a major reshuffle of party bosses on the home front. This would be in line with recent widespread changes in Russian diplomatic assignments abroad.

FOLLOW PURGE

One diplomatic source here viewed Soviet Premier Georgi M. Malenkov as securing his position by putting trusted lieutenants in key spots. He has made many moves in that direction since the purging of the Soviets' ex-secret police boss, Lavrenty P. Beria.

The first broadcast announced that Zinovi Timofeevich Serdyuk, long a party leader in the Ukraine had been made top party man in the neighboring Moldavian SSR. The Kishinev radio said Serdyuk succeeded Dmitri Spiridonovich Gladkiy, who became Serdyuk's deputy.

OTHER CHANGES

Two major changes were announced in the strategic Central Asian Kazakh SSR. The Kazakh radio said one Comrade Ponomarenko had taken over as first secretary of the party's Central Committee and that Comrade Brezhnev was his deputy.

The two new bosses were otherwise unidentified.

Half Million in Cash and Securities Found in Home of Beaten Woman, 86

DETROIT, Feb. 7 (AP)—More than half a million dollars was found today in the home of an 86-year-old woman who was beaten brutally last Wednesday.

The woman, Mrs. Carrie Wherritt, dressed in rags and lived alone.

Police counted $291,800 in cash and estimated there was at least that much more in securities in a safe in her bedroom.

Mrs. Wherritt, still in serious condition in Receiving Hospital, offered no explanation of the large sum of money.

AFL Urges Free World Output Talk

By A. H. RASKIN
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

MIAMI BEACH, Feb. 7—The American Federation of Labor executive council urged today that the United States take the lead in calling an international economic conference to increase the productive capacities and living standards of the free world.

The proposal was part of a 10-point international program adopted by the AFL leaders at their midwinter meeting here. The program was based on the belief that there is no "new look" in Soviet Russia under Premier Malenkov and that the free nations must press with increased energy their joint efforts against communism.

SOCIAL AIDE

The federation called on President Eisenhower to appoint a special adviser on international economic and social rearmament to supervise this government's program for combatting totalitarianism through nonmilitary methods.

"The creation of such a high presidential office," the AFL said, "will dramatize before the entire world that America will not disengage itself from its responsibilities of world leadership, that we do not view world leadership in a narrow military or strictly economic sense, whether it be aid or trade, and that we are prepared, jointly with the peoples of evry continent and creed, on a basis of equality, to help build a world free from the peril of hunger, the terror of dictatorship and the horrors of war."

The proposed economic conference of nontotalitarian countries would give special attention to lifting purchasing power and expanding output in economically underdeveloped areas. In addition, it would be concerned with expanding the domestic markets of each free country, facilitating international trade, stabilizing prices of basic raw materials, arranging for a fairer distribution of natural resources and seeking plans for "more rational international utilization of the surplus manpower in any particular country."

AFL MONOGRAM

Other elements in the AFL program:

1. Inclusion of Italy in the top leadership of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and promotion of closer relations between France and Germany.

2. Renunciation of all agreements among the free nations that have been "utilized by the Soviet dictatorship for destroying the national sovereignty and democratic rights of the peoples forced into the Communist slave orbit."

3. Elections under United Nations auspices to promote the unification and sovereignty of such countries as Germany, Austria, China, Korea and Indochina.

OPEN TALKS

4. Initiation of talks with our democratic allies on specific projects for peaceful use of the atom, even prior to full-scale negotiations with Moscow.

5. Fixing of definite time limits for the extension of democratic self-rule to colonial territories, especially in Asia and Africa.

6. Discontinuance of all direct and indirect aid by the United States to Latin American dictatoships, with Argentina, Venezuela and Guatemala singled out for special reference.

THE ISSUE: REDS
Chairman Hall

GOP Backs McCarthy, Hall Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today charges of Communism under Democratic administrations will be a GOP issue in the coming campaign and that the Republican Party endorses Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin who is making speeches about it.

Hall also said there will be a "demand" for President Eisenhower to run for reelection in 1956 that "he cannot forsake."

THOMAS RACE

The Republican chief also declared that if he were a voter in New Jersey he would not vote for J. Parnell Thomas, former chairman of the House un-American Activities Committee who is seeking the GOP nomination to another House term. Thomas served a jail term for payroll padding.

Appearing on the NBC television program, "Meet the Press," Hall denied a charge by Mrs. Agnes E. Meyer, wife of the board chairman of the Washington Post, that the coming congressional campaign will be the "dirtiest, meanest one" the nation has seen.

"No, I think it will be a typical American political campaign," Hall said.

IKE HOPE

Hall was reminded he has said previously communism-in-government will be an issue in the coming congressional campaign, while President Eisenhower has stated he hopes all Reds will be out of government before the election and it will not be an issue.

Hall said, in reply to a question, that he considers McCarthy an "asset" to the GOP campaign. He said McCarthy "is in demand all over" as a speaker, and the senator himself "decides where he will go."

GOP BACKING

Asked if the GOP endorses the Wisconsinite, Hall replied:

"We pay the expenses of our speakers and, if that's an endorsement, yes. He was elected from Wisconsin, and in my opinion he will and should receive the support of the Republican Party because the people of Wisconsin elected him."

Asked further if the GOP will endorse McCarthy throughout the country on that basis, Hall replied:

"That's right."

Not All Security Risks Disloyal, Brownell Says

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7—Atty. Gen. Brownell said tonight everything possible should be done to make it "very clear" that not all the 2,200 federal workers discharged as "security risks" were Communists or espionage agents.

Any claim that nearly all of them were spies or were disloyal to the United States could not "accurately be made," he said.

At the same time he repeated administration doubts that a detailed breakdown of the list could lead to possible harm to persons losing their jobs only because they were "blabbermouths."

8 OR NINE CATEGORIES

Brownell, one of the key officials in carrying out President Eisenhower's government security program, told a television audience that the employes discharged fell into "eight or nine" categories.

Some should not be entrusted with government secrets because they talked too much, others because they were chronic drunkards, and there were some who associated too much with known Communists or fellow travelers, he said.

Eisenhower expressed his concern over the problem at a news conference last week and said he was determined that innocent persons should not suffer guilt by association.

SOME INFORMATION

The White House staff, he said, had been directed to consider ways of making available some information by way of breakdown.

Brownell, appearing on the CBS television program "Man of the Week," said the Civil Service Commission would take up the security risk question in a semi-annual report soon to be submitted to the President.

Every effort, he said, would be made at that time to give out as much information "as is consistent with the program." It is generally assumed that the commission's report will have new and larger figures on the number of government employes discharged on security grounds.

PROTESTS

During the interview, Brownell was asked about protests that administration officials and some members of Congress were making statements indicating that the 2,200 persons were nearly all spies.

"No such claims can accurately be made," replied Brownell.

The administration's top law enforcement official said it would be a "mistake" to identify persons fired under the program, because many of them were competent to hold down jobs where government secrets were not involved. It was not always possible, either, he said, to state the precise category into which a person deemed to be a security risk might fall.

VFW Red Hunt Myth Is Exposed

By DAVID ANDERSON
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NORWALK, Conn., Feb. 7—The secret committee of Post 603, Veterans of Foreign Wars, charged with the mission of turning in to the FBI any Norwalk residents suspected of being "communistically inclined," was exposed here tonight to be a myth.

No less an authority on the affairs of the organization than Mrs. Suzanne Silvercruys Stevenson, founder of the Minute Women of America and a member of the VFW auxiliary in this city, stated with the utmost emphasis on a radio broadcast:

"I can assure you no such secret committee has been formed or appointed or contemplated and that any statement to the contrary is untruthful information to the public and practically subversive."

TELLS ALL

When confronted with this news, Post Commander Albert A. Beres made a clean breast of the whole affair.

"It's our own fault," he said. "Rather than have a man forget about the information he has, we felt that it's our duty not to let it pass by. We were not doing, what-do-you-call-it, screening anyone. There are timid people in every post throughout the country and it's our duty as officers to help them.

WRONG GUESS

"We underestimated what the public would take as a committee. We're not looking for nobody. A man's got to make himself prominent in a subversive way before we'll do anything about him."

Mrs. Stevenson, in the broadcast, said: "What the VFW is doing, I repeat, with no committee, makes every member of the post by the oath he took a serving member on a committee to report subversives, as is the case in all patriotic organizations."

The broadcast tonight was the 37th Fairfield County forum over Station WNLK. The subject under discussion was "Is the VFW method of combating communism doing good or harm?"

Supporting the veterans with Mrs. Stevenson was former State Sen. Stanley Stroffoling. Opposing them were Stetson Holmes of Darien, director of the mid-European study center, National Committee for Free Europe, and Bern Dibner of Wilton, president of the Burndy Engineering Co. of Norwalk.

George Sees Treaty Curb Blocked; Knowland Presses for Compromise

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Sen Walter F. George (D-Ga) predicted today that none of the various Senate proposals to curb the President's treaty powers will receive the two-thirds majority required for passage.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) said, however, that he will continue to work for a compromise that would be acceptable to both President Eisenhower and Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio), sponsor of the amendment.

Knowland said the matter probably will be threshed out anew at the President's regular White House meeting tomorrow with his GOP legislative lieutenants.

UPSET BALANCE

Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. said on the CBS television show, "Man of the Week," that the administration opposes any proposal which would upset the "delicate balance of power" between the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government.

He said the Constitution actually gives all branches more power than they need for day-to-day operations because greater authority sometimes is called for in times of emergency.

If any branch abuses its power, he said, action should be taken "in the political field" and no attempt made to tamper with the "genius" of the Constitution itself.

Brownell also declared there was "no disunity" within the Republican Party despite differences over the Bricker amendment.

Knowland and Chairman Homer Ferguson (R-Mich) of the Senate Republican Policy Committee said they "hope" to reach a compromise agreement soon. Knowland said he feels that if such agreement can be reached, the necessary votes can be found to pass it as a constitutional amendment.

NOTHING ACCEPTABLE

George, author of a separate version, noted that no acceptable compromise has been found in two weeks of intensive and sometimes bi-partisan negotiations. He said it hardly seems likely that one can be reached now.

George said he is willing to let his amendment, and all others now before the Senate, come to an early vote but he doubts "very, very much" that any would get a two-thirds majority.

Debate will continue this week but the Senate has agreed to take no definite action until at least Feb. 15 to permit senators to fulfill Lincoln Day speaking engagements.

Falling From Cage, Blind Parakeet Stumbles Into a 'Seeing-Eye' Dog

JACKSON, Tenn., Feb. 7—(AP)—A 7-months-old parakeet, blind since birth, and a 16-year-old dog have formed a "seeing-eye" companionship.

The parakeet, owned by Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Holmes, fell out of its cage a few months ago, then stumbled around the room until it bumped into the old dog, "Brownie."

The dog allowed the parakeet, named "Baby," to perch on its neck and the tiny bird has been hitching rides ever since. It finds its way to the dog by following the sound of Brownie's breathing.

Brownie, however, won't allow either of the Holmes' other two parakeets to move in on Baby's perch and shakes them off when they try to do so.

Most of the time the dog and its tiny feathered companion settle down in front of the television set.

Family Crime Costs Put at $495 Annually

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP)—Crime costs each family in the United States an average of $495 annually, FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover has informed a congressional committee.

For every dollar spent on education, Hoover estimated, $1.82 is spent indirectly paying for criminal activities, and for every dollar donated to churches, $10 goes to crime.

"Burglary is a typical example," Hoover said. "The average burglary loss in this country, according to estimates prepared from these figures collected from local authorities, is $180 per burglary. At this rate, estimating 442,760 burglaries committed in the United States during 1952, the loss would be nearly 80 million dollars."

Hoover supplied the statistics to the House Appropriations Committee while testifying in support of the FBI's new budget.

Preliminary data, he said, indicates that 1953 will set a new high for major crimes, with a major offense being committed every 14.9 seconds.

Statistics for the first six months of 1953, he said, showed that every 4.3 minutes a murder, manslaughter, rape or assault with intent to kill was committed.

"I do not believe the average citizen senses the proper role that crime plays as a national problem," he said. "It exists on a scale so enormous that it is difficult to grasp it. It can reasonably be estimated that 20 billion dollars annually is the cost of crime in this country."

Hoover voiced concern over an increase in the crime rate among youths. He said 7.8 per cent of the persons arrested in 1952 were under 18 years, 13.3 per cent were under 21, and 23.1 per cent were under 25.

The group under 18, he said, accounted for 19.4 per cent of all robberies in which arrests were made, 36.9 per cent of all larcenies, 47.8 per cent of all burglaries, and 52.6 per cent of all auto thefts.

Policeman Shot At Laundry Dies

CHICAGO, Feb. 7—Patrolman Jeremiah Lucey, 60, one of four persons wounded Saturday in a gun fight at a Northwest Side Chinese laundry, died today.

Lucey's wife, Mary, 44, and two children, Maureen, 11, and Gerald, 19, were at his bedside at Alexian Brothers Hospital.

The police veteran of 30 years, and a fellow officer, Roman Steinke, 42, were shot when they tried to serve the laundry owner, Jimmy Lee, 39, a warrant for assault.

Senator's Son Is Arrested

BOISE, Idaho, Feb. 7 (AP)—Police said today they had arrested Calvin Dworshak, 27-year-old son of Sen. Henry Dworshak (R-Idaho), on a drunk driving charge.

Patrolmen Milton Friedley and Richard L. Deal said the younger Dworshak's car sped through the Boise business district last night at 50-55 miles per hour.

Dworshak, an attorney, was later released on $300 bond and ordered to appear in Police Court Thursday.

Can't Get By On U.S. Pay, AFL Charges

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7—Half of the workers employed by the federal government earn so little that they seek outside jobs to supplement their salaries, the American Federation of Labor executive council asserted today.

The council based its estimate on surveys made by AFL groups representing 600,000 workers in the Post Office Department, and other branches of the Civil Service. The federation said the surveys also showed that 40 per cent of the wives of federal employes were obliged to look for work as a means of bolstering their husband's earnings.

Free Booklet Tells How Deaf Hear Again With Startling Clarity, Ease

CHICAGO (Special)—New hope for the 15 million persons in the United States who are hard of hearing was voiced by a noted Chicago acoustical scientist.

He reported that through the miracle of modern electronics it is now possible to overcome deafness even if the loss is severe.

He demonstrated how the deaf can hear again with a clarity and ease they never dreamed possible.

According to this electronic engineer, Mr. Sam Posen of Beltone, "the longer a hearing loss is neglected, the harder it is to recapture certain speech sounds and understand them."

To acquaint the hard of hearing readers of this paper with what may be done to help the deaf hear again with miraculous clarity, full authoritative details about deafness and how to overcome it are described in an informative, new, illustrated booklet, which will be sent in a plain wrapper without any cost or obligation.

To obtain your free copy, simply send your request to: Electronic Research Director, Dept. 673A, Beltone Hearing Aid Co., 2900 W. 36th St., Chicago 32, Ill. A postcard will do.

Men and Wayward Horses

Horse racing, by its own admission, is the sport of kings. Well, in 1945, when it appeared some of the kings needed to feel the back of a hand and the knaves should be kept at their distance, the Thoroughbred Racing Protective Bureau was set up.

In more than a sense, it was to be the Pinkertons of the Thoroughbred Racing Association, which is now made up of 37 of the most righteous betting factories in the country, from Hialeah to Santa Anita. A fellow named Spencer J. Drayton was appointed to run the bureau, and he surrounded himself with a corps of the most apt gumshoe men in the country.

Bisher

Among his cast was a neat young man with black hair and inquisitive eyes and a burning fever to play detective. He was and is Cecil Huxford, no longer a TRPB man, but an entrepreneur who operates an armored car company and dabbles in other business adventures around town, all going concerns.

In his time in the army of Drayton, it was Huxford's job to travel from track to track while the racing season was on and keep his eyes open for shifty-eyed characters and horses that appeared to be under the influence but were known among their brethren to be teetotalers of the highest character. Race tracks being what they are and attracting a special breed of their own, the Drayton men were busier than a cat on a tin roof.

Huxford beat a circuit around New England, from Narragansett to Rockingham to Suffolk Downs and down to Laurel in Maryland and eventually into Florida, going where the horses were in action. During that period, he stood unique along with the rest of the Drayton troops. He was one of the few people who went to the track and never placed a bet. If he ever had to stay late at the office, his understanding wife always knew he was at the bedside of a sick horse, or chasing one of the shifty-eyed who wasn't satisfied to let the horses decide things among themselves.

—For $300,000, a $1,000 Fine

There occurred in those days on the Huxford beat a most brazen effort at horse shuffling. And here the man on the case should do the narrating:

"They bought this maiden named Allpooch," he said, indicating the nag was strictly a dog, "and killed the poor animal. Then they transferred Allpooch's papers to another horse of good breeding, and I think the name was War Command. Anyway, it was a fine horse.

"After a little time had passed, they entered this good horse in a $1,000 claiming race at Rockingham under Allpooch's registration. Well, you get the idea. Here was this Allpooch, a six or seven-year-old running its first race. The odds would be something like 99 to one. These fellows got down all the money they could around the country, and even at the track they ran the odds so low that the racing office knew something must be fishy. But they didn't know it soon enough.

"The race came off and Allpooch, or War Command really, stumbled getting out of the starting gate and still won by about 15 lengths. By that time, everybody knew something was wrong. We started an investigation and discovered the story of this Allpooch. The men were fined $1,000 apiece and banned from racing for life, but they had what they wanted. They had worked on a one-race proposition. They picked up around $300,000 and it cost them $1,000.

"The man who claimed the horse was the one who got stuck, for the horse was automatically banned from all tracks. So, he paid $1,000 for a gelding that could never run again."

—The Battery Lasted One Race

Race tracks are populated by dreamers living on a thin dime and living for the big kill. This goes not only for the man at the pari-mutuel window, but a large number of hopeful owners. The percentage of Vanderbilts and Wrights and Guggenheims among owners is extremely low, even at the more reputable tracks.

One of the TRA's services to racing has been to weed out the undesirables at the class tracks. That forces the shoestring owner to the second-rate track, where the racing office is screaming for horses.

The use of batteries to shock the horse into performance beyond the call of duty is a common evil at these struggling tracks. "The jockeys at one track usually got rid of the batteries as they pulled up at the first turn after crossing the finish line," Huxford said. "They'd throw them over the fence. After one race at a little track down in Florida, five batteries were found over the fence."

The battery was first used, the story goes, by an owner named Bob Rice who was exceedingly disgruntled at a horse that had a habit of flagging in the stretch. An electrician friend suggested a battery under the saddle. The jockey turned on the juice the next time out and the horse, a longshot, won paying his owner handsomely, after which Bob Rice boasted openly of his discovery.

He had another horse named Little Crete going in the next race, but before post time the other owners called for a huddle with the stewards. After a hurried conference, the battery was banned then and there as an illegal stimulant.

Bob Rice didn't suffer, though. Odds shot up on Little Crete when word got around that the battery was out. Rice plunged heavily on Little Crete, anyway, and the loyal horse won by six lengths without electricity. Rice made such a cleaning on the two races that day that when he died he still had over $100,000 worth of uncashed tickets in his pocket.

KENTUCKY RELEASES BRYANT FOR A&M JOB

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 7 (AP)—Paul (Bear) Bryant's resignation as Kentucky football coach was accepted today, enabling him to become coach and athletic director at Texas A&M.

Directors of the University's Athletics Association announced his release in a brief statement and said a committee was named to screen applicants for the coaching vacancy at Kentucky.

Bryant said "I have telegraphed President Morgan of Texas A&M of official acceptance of the position offered."

At College Station, Texas, Morgan said when told of Bryant's release:

"That's fine. I've been waiting for that news. We feel that with Mr. Bryant we will be able to unite behind him and develop a winning team."

The coach said his plans to go to College Station were not fully certain but it would be "right away."

One source indicated the coach might fly to Texas Monday.

Bryant also said he had no complete plans on his staff at A&M. It is generally believed some of his aides at Kentucky would accompany him to Texas.

Two Kentucky assistants, Clarence Underwood and Ermal Allen, are among those mentioned as Bryant's probable successor. Underwood is a line coach and Allen works with the backs.

In the brief announcement, Athletics Association directors said:

"A motion was made that Coach Bryant's resignation be accepted. The motion was seconded and passed."

"A committee to screen coaches and make recommendations (for Bryant's successor) was appointed. The committee will be headed by Athletic Director Bernie Shively."

The directors made no elaboration.

The screening committee reportedly was five or six members.

A member said tonight he did not know what procedure the committee would follow and there were no dates set immediately to interview applicants.

"We hope to get on this pretty fast," the member said, "but it takes a little time."

There are about 15 applicants for the Kentucky job but none has been identified by name.

The tug-of-war between Bryant and the University over his contract, which extended through the 1962 season, began last Thursday. The 40-year-old coach said at that time he had given his resignation to Shively and would accept the Texas A&M offer when he was released here.

Ed Furgol, Middlecoff All Knotted

Wind's Gust Costs Inman

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 7 (AP)—A capricious gust of wind blew away the victory chances of the tournament long-shot, Bob Inman of Tulsa, Okla., and Cary Middlecoff and veteran Ed Furgol swept on from behind to tie for the $2,000 first prize in the $10,000 Phoenix Open Golf tournament late today.

Middlecoff, 32-year-old former National Open champion from Memphis, Tenn., shot an even par 71. Furgol, a man who has never won a major tournament and has the handicap of a withered left arm, shot a 68 to go into a tie at 272 strokes with Middlecoff at the end of the regular 72 holes.

The coleaders will meet in an 18-hole playoff—a sudden death after that if they are still tied—beginning at 3 p.m. (EST) tomorrow.

The windup was hectic before the largest gallery in the tournament's history. Furgol had a chance to win the top money uncontested if he could sink a five-foot putt for a birdie on the 18th green. He missed.

But the real drama occurred on the 10th tee when Inman, by all odds the gallery's favorite because of his spectacular play in previous rounds, started to drive.

Inman was leading Middlecoff by one stroke after passing the 63d hole and was two strokes in front of Furgol.

Just as Inman came with his down-swing a sudden burst of wind flipped a sheet of paper off of a table nearby. The paper sailed in front of Inman. He missed the shot. The ball headed straight into a grove of trees.

By the time the youngster from Oklahoma had emerged from the wildnerness and finished the hole, he had taken a three-over-par seven. It undoubtedly upset him and he was dead from then on. He wound up with a 77 and a total of 277.

Tied behind the coleaders at 273 were Jack Burke Jr., Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., with a 68; Jack Harden, El Paso, Texas, 69, and Johnny Weitzel, Hershey, Pa. 71.

Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., no relation to Ed, had a 69 and tied at 275 with the Canadian star, Stan Leonard, Vancouver, B. C., who had a 72.

Jim Ferrier of San Francisco had a 70 for 276.

Tied with Inman at 277 were Peter Thomson, former Australian Open champion from Melbourne, with a 73, and Bob Toski, Livington, N. J., with a 69.

Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., who signalled a belated threat with a 64 yesterday, fell back with a 73 today for 281, out of the money.

Money winners:

Ed Furgol, 68—272; Cary Middlecoff, 71—272; Jack Burke Jr., 68—272—$833.33; Jack Harden, 69—273—$833.33; John Weitzel, 71—273—$833.33; Marty Furgol, 69—275—$360; Stan Leonard, 72—275—$560; Jim Ferrier, 70—276—$440; Bob Inman, 77—277—$343.33; Bob Toski, 69—277—$343.33; Peter Thomson, 73—277—$343.33; Julius Boros, 68—278—$255; Fred Haas, 72—278—$255; Johnny Bulla, 71—279—$180; Vic Ghezzi, 70—279—$180; Chandler Harper, 65—279—$180; Jerry Barber, 70—280—$115; Tommy Bolt, 71—280—$115; Walter Burkemo, 68—280—$115; Jack Mann, 71—280—$115.

Battling Nelson Dies In Mental Institution

Heart Condition Proves Fatal To Former Lightweight Champ

CHICAGO, Feb. 7 (INS)—Oscar (Battling) Nelson, one of the greatest fighters of all-time, died today in Chicago State Mental Hospital at the age of 71.

Death came to the "Durable Dane," who was world's lightweight champion from 1906 to 1910, exactly a month after he was committed to the institution on grounds of "incurable senile dementia."

Battling Nelson

Death was attributed to a heart condition but friends said he had never the same since his wife, Edna, died the day after Christmas, 1953.

Nelson held the crown until Washington's birthday, 1910, when Ad Wolgast, "The Michigan Wildcat," battered him into a helpless wreck in the 40th round of a scheduled 45-round bout.

Nelson always maintained he was winning when the fight was stopped, declaring that "I never touched the floor and never was hangin' on the ropes."

Once the owner of $300,000 worth of property in his neighborhood of Hegewisch on Chicago's far South Side, he was reduced in his later years to a clerk's job at the Chicago post office.

Failing eyesight and bad health forced him to give up even that job. He eked out an existence on a $22 a month pension and the charity of friends.

In the last year, he was the recipient of some $5,000 collected in fund drives.

Nelson was a familiar figure along the Loop streets where the fight crowds still gather. Deadbroke, bent and wasted, he could be seen shuffling along cadging the price of a cup of coffee from friends and admirers who "knew him when."

His was a rags-to-riches back to rags saga but the old story had a different twist—the clean living Nelson did not dissipate away his money but lost it in "sound" real estate ventures.

At the time of his commitment to the mental ward, Nelson was down to 80 pounds. Yet when he ruled the roost of the lightweight division he was 133 pounds of the finest fighting machinery the prize ring has ever known.

Battling Nelson fought every ranking lightweight for two decades. His classic battles were with Joe Gans, the Baltimore Negro. Three times they clashed, the first time in a grueling three-hour match before a sun-baked crowd at a mining camp in Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 3, 1906.

Holscher Blazes Back Nine Late For Record 29

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 7 (AP)—Young Bud Holscher of California—now of White Plains, N.Y.—gave the gallery a thrill today when he shot a record six-under-par 29 for the last nine holes in the Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

The former Santa Monica, Calif., stringbean collected four birdies and closed out with an eagle-three on the 18th green for a 68.

Unfortunately, Holscher had a three-over-par, on the first nine. A trap on the sixth cost him a double bogey. His scores of 74-71-69-68 gave him a total of 282.

Kentucky, Duquesne Only Unbeaten Teams

Eastern Ends Western Kentucky Skein; Mich. State Gives Indiana Big Scare

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Twelve-times-beaten Eastern Kentucky's stunning upset of Western Kentucky left Kentucky and Duquesne as the only undefeated college teams in the land today.

Playing on their home court at Richmond, Ky., Coach Paul McBrayer's inexperienced Maroons achieved one of the campaign's biggest surprises with their 63-54 triumph and also avenged two earlier losses to the Hilltoppers. Western Kentucky had beaten the Maroons, 81-78, in one game and rolled up a school scoring record with a 122-78 romp in the other.

But Eastern surprised Coach Ed Diddle's hard-running, fancy-shooting Hilltoppers Saturday night with a slow-down possession game and went on to end their 21-game winning skein—the season's longest. Sophomore Jack Adams scored 23 points for the Maroons and also limited Western's all-American candidate, Tom Marshall, to eight.

Eastern led, 33-27, at the half and 47-43 at the end of the third period, but needed six free throws by freshman guard Jim Mitchell in the last three minutes to survive a late Hilltopper rally.

Kentucky rolled to its 16th straight victory, meanwhile, and Duquesne came through with a triumph that won't go into its official season record but probably ranks as its most impressive of the season.

Kentucky's Wildcats had little more than target practice as they routed Georgia, 100-68, at Owensboro, Ky. Cliff Hagan sparked the Wildcats with a 29-point performance before his hometown fans.

Duquesne turned in one of the night's key victories, handling the talent-packed Quantico Marines with surprising ease in an 81-68 win. The Iron Dukes limited former pro star Paul Arizin to 12 points as they handed the Marines their second loss in 32 games. Si Green scored 25 for Duquesne.

Indiana, beaten only once, scored its seventh straight Big 10 triumph by beating Michigan State, 79-74, at Bloomington, Ind. Bob Leonard scored 26 points and Don Schlundt tallied 25 to lead the Hoosiers, who battled through 12 ties and as many lead changes before coming out on top.

Minnesota, Indiana's chief challenger in the Big 10, also had tough sledding before beating Purdue, 67-64. The game was in doubt until Chuck Menoel's field goal with two seconds left. Illinois defeated Michigan, 87-68, and Wisconsin beat Ohio State, 79-73, in the other Big 10 games.

In other top games, California defeated Southern California, 46-32; Notre Dame edged out DePaul, 59-53, for its 12th victory in 14 games; Kansas walloped Oklahoma, 98-80, and LaSalle routed Furman, 100-83, despite Frank Selvy's 40-point performance. Selvy outscored LaSalle's Tom Gola by 15 points, but Gola grabbed 27 rebounds to pave the way for the Explorers' triumph.

SATCHEL PAIGE TURNS DOWN 10G MINOR LEAGUE OFFER

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7 (AP)—Ageless Satchel Paige said today it would take more than a $10,000 offer to interest him in Class C California League baseball.

Satchel Paige

President Tom Mellis of the Modesto Reds said yesterday he was wiring the veteran Negro pitcher that offer to play for his club this season.

Paige recently received his release from Baltimore in the American League and has been conferring with officials of the Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast League. The figure most prominently mentioned as necessary to secure his baseball services has been $20,000.

Asked about Mellis' offer, Paige said he hadn't heard from him but "it would take more than that."

Satchel's baseball future remains undecided. He plans to remain here until Wednesday, then visit at his Kansas City home before rejoining the Harlem Globetrotter basketball team in Houston, Texas.

Former Braves Sign En Masse With Giants

Antonelli, Liddle, Klaus, St. Claire Agree to Terms With New Employers

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Pitchers Johnny Antonelli and Don Liddle, infielder Billy Klaus and catcher Ebba St. Claire, all obtained from Milwaukee last Monday in the trade for Bobby Thomson and Sam Calderone, have agreed to 1954 contract terms with the New York Giants, the club said today.

The two pitchers, along with St. Claire, will report with the first squad at Phoenix on Feb. 21.

Antonelli and Liddle, both southpaws, helped the Braves to their second-place finish last season. Antonelli had a 12-12 won-loss record and his 3.19 earned run average was fifth in the league.

Klaus had signed his contract with Milwaukee before being dealt to the Giants.

Antonelli expressed pleasure in the letter in which he returned his signed contract. "I am looking forward to the 1954 season," he said, "and am sure I can be of real help to the Giants."

Swift-Colby Team Wins

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP)—Finishing in almost total darkness, Cookie Swift and Vonnie Colby won the women's international amateur four-ball golf tournament today 2-up in 36 holes.

They defeated Joyce Ziske of Milwaukee and Wiffie Smith of Guadalajara, Mexico, in a grueling match that started at 8 o'clock this morning and ended at 6:30 (EST) tonight with only a brief break for lunch.

It was a popular victory with the gallery because Miss Swift, who lives in Great Neck, L.I., spends her winters here, and Miss Colby is a Hollywood resident.

There was never more than a one-hole edge during the entire match until the 36th hole. Miss Colby was just short of the green with her second shot and chipped up to within three feet of the cup.

Tickets Go on Sale Today For City Auditorium Tourney

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Interest in the 1954 State Class AA high school basketball tournament mounted by leaps and bounds over the weekend as Atlanta teams invaded the home gyms of some of Georgia's strongest teams while others made a two-day stand against out-of-town visitors in the Gate City.

The 33d annual GIAA tourney, the second to be sponsored by The Constitution in cooperation with the Georgia High School Association, will be held at the City Auditorium here, Feb. 23-27, Tuesday through Saturday.

Reserved seat season tickets will be sold for the first time this year. They go on sale this morning at the front counter on the first floor of The Journal-Constitution building and at Reeder-McGaughey Sporting Goods Store, corner Walton and Broad Streets.

The reserved seats are priced at $8 for a block that entitles the purchaser to sit in the same dress circle or box seat for the eight afternoon and night sessions.

About 1,400 reserved seats are available and may be bought only for the entire tournament. Any left over by tournament time will be sold at the auditorium box office for $1.25 a session.

Single performance general admission tickets also will go on sale today. Prices are $1 for adults and 60 cents for students, it was announced by George O'Kelley, athletic business manager for city schools.

Three teams already have won berths in the 16-team tournament. Max Spellman's Savannah Commercial Cobras have clinched one of Region Two's spots by virtue of winning the regular season loop championship and drawing a bye for the region tournament in Augusta next week.

Jim Nolan's Moultrie Packers and Bubba Ball's Baker Lions with 7-2 and 6-3 records in Region One play cannot fall below fourth place even if they lose all their remaining games and thus are definitely in, also. All three are considered prime contenders for the state crown.

Region Three (City League) and Region Four will determine which four of their teams will battle for the state crown in tournaments here and in Dalton next week.

Brown, Smith, O'Keefe and North Fulton's state defending champions appear to be Atlanta's most likely entries, although Murphy, Roosevelt and Sylvan all are strong enough to oust one of the favorites as did Fulton's "Gee-Whiz Kids" a year ago. Mo Phelps' Murphy unit, winner over both Boys Catholic and Richmond Academy over the weekend, undoubtedly will be a real threat.

Charlie Aldridge's Russell of East Point is regarded as the strongest quintet in Region Four, but from there out it is anybody's guess with Cedartown, Dalton, Rome, Decatur, Rossville and Marist all appearing to be of about equal strength.

A SLOW WEEK

Idle Allen Holds 2-AA Point Lead

Special to The Constitution

AUGUSTA, Feb. 7—Richmond Academy's Ray Allen, with a 19.5 average, is still the leading scorer in Region 2-AA basketball.

Neither Allen nor Ronnie Rush of Commercial, his closest competitor, appeared in a league game last week, leaving their figures unchanged.

-Ski Jump Winner

BEAR MOUNTAIN, N.Y., Feb. 7 (AP)—Alfred Vincelette, 18-year-old senior at nearby Highland Falls High School, won the New York State ski jumping championship today before more than 34,000 fans. He leaped 145 and 151 feet to beat out all jumpers in classes A, B and the Senior Division.

High Riding Auburn Plays Tech Tonight

Plainsmen Have 4 Straight SEC Victories Under Their Belt

Everything else has happened to Georgia Tech's basketball team this season so it seems appropriate that Auburn should buzz into the Jacket hive at the Plainsmen's very peak.

Joel Eaves' surging seniors enter Tech Gym tonight at 8 astride a four-game Southeastern Conference winning streak. Although this result will not count in SEC standings under rotating-schedule complexities, the Plainsmen will be topheavy favorites to make it No. 5 straight.

Additionally, Auburn's attitude is perfectly conducive to victory over Whack Hyder's winless squad because of a soul-satisfying Saturday night experience. The Plainsmen knocked off Vanderbilt, 76-73, in revenge for an earlier 96-48 rout that was Eaves' worst ordeal since taking over at Auburn in 1949. That weekend vengeance-taking, most notably achieved by the rebounding of Bob Miller and John Cochran, also zoomed Auburn into a fourth-place SEC tie with Tulane on a 5-2 record.

Tech, 0-9 in the league, 0-15 overall this season and 0-21 reaching back over part of last year, at least will offer a newly reliable weapon to complement soph scoring leaders Dick Lenholt and Bill Cohen. Fastest-coming trooper in Hyder's platoon is guard Bobby Kimmel, a Louisville yearling who hit 12 points against Kentucky and 14 more against Alabama during the week.

Students and faculty-members have first call on tickets tonight, but a good number usually remains for public consumption.

Tech has later dates, no less frightening, with Furman at Greenville, S. C., on Thursday and LSU here Saturday.

Georgia (1-6, 6-11), twice trounced by Kentucky last week, rests until invading the court of second-place (5-1, 11-5) Alabama on Saturday.

Kentucky goes to Florida tonight protecting a record unscarred in 16 over-all games and seven SEC starts. LSU doesn't defend its tie for the lead until coming here this weekend, but actually still has it only by the grace of some highly erratic shooting by Ole Miss' Cob Jarvis in the closing minutes of the Bengals' 53-52 nipping of the Rebs last Monday night.

Vanderbilt (3-4, 10-5) plays at Alabama to round out tonight's three-game schedule.—POPE.

THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE

Monday—Vanderbilt at Alabama, Kentucky at Florida, Auburn at Tech.
Tuesday—Ole Miss at Memphis State.
Wednesday—Arkansas State at Mississippi State.
Thursday—Tech at Furman.
Saturday—Mississippi State at Tennessee, Georgia at Alabama, Florida at Auburn, Ole Miss at Kentucky, Tulane at Vandy, LSU at Tech.

CHISOXER FROM STONE MOUNTAIN

Johnson 'Off' This Winter, Shoots for Summer Stardom

By LARRY FOX

There's no winter ball this year for Stone Mountain's Connie Johnson. As a major leaguer, he's ineligible to go south with the tourists . . . but he'd rather not anyway.

"I've been playing winter ball for five years, and that's enough," says the Chicago White Sox' Negro right-hander. "Now that I'm in the majors I don't think it would pay. It wears you out. These fellows think they make money down there. You make $3,000 or $4,000 but then you're tired, you have a bad season, you have to take a big cut. It doesn't pay."

Johnson, who ended the season with the White Sox at 4-4 after spending the middle portions of the summer with Charleston of the American Association, is approaching spring training this year with the utmost confidence.

"All you got to do is win that first game and then you're sure of yourself," he says. "Until then, you don't know if you belong there."

Johnson, who grew up in Atlanta and is spending the last few weeks before spring training here, took three tries to win his first in 1953. Now he's sure he'll stick.

As for the pennant race, the tall, rangy hurler sees Boston's Red Sox as the top threat with his own Chicago club given a chance to go all the way with some outfield help.

Johnson describes one White Sox outfield combination this way: "We got one fellow who can get to the ball all right, but then it pops out of his hands. Another guy is real fast, but he overruns fly balls once in a while. And the third fellow can hold anything he can reach, but he's too slow to reach many."

The rest of the White Sox team is solid, Johnson thinks, with pitching help from Jack Harshman (ex-Nashville Vol) and Dick Strahs (up from Memphis) an added benefit.

And worth "10 to 20 games" to the White Sox, according to Johnson, is Paul Richards, the manager.

One thing that makes Johnson happy as he preps for '54 is that he won't have to undergo the humiliation he stood when he rejoined the White Sox last summer. He and Minnie Minoso were checking in together at a Chicago hotel. And as they got out of the cab, Johnson, full of importance as a big leaguer again, heard Minoso holler, "Okay, rookie, you carry the bags."

Atlanta isn't seeking a major league franchise due to numerous reasons, but attendance figures for the last five years certify this city as one of the nation's most eligible sites.

An attendance table, compiled for the Sporting News by Denver sportswriter Frank Haraway, shows that the Crackers rank ninth in the minors. But six of the franchises outdrawing Atlanta are Coast League teams, which play schedules ranging from 168 to 190 games.

Jesse Outlar

Only Denver, which leads the pack with a 2,049,831 total for five years, is in a lower classification than the Crackers. With a turnstile count of 1,563,854, Atlanta topped 17 double A and several triple A clubs by a comfortable margin.

FORT McPHERSON is negotiating for a couple of exhibition games with the Crackers. . . . Dewey Williams, who might fit into the Cracker picture as a catcher-coach, is a free agent. He was released by Toledo last week. . . . Humberto Robinson, one of three Negro players on Atlanta's roster, set a strikeout record in the Panama League last week. In pitching a one-hit victory against Spur Cola, the Chesterfield right-hander fanned 15. . . .

BILL MAUGHN, one-time Brave scout, has hooked on in the same capacity with the St. Louis Cards. He'll cover the Ohio, Indiana and Michigan territory. . . . Frank Smith, Atlanta outfield candidate, rewrote the Miami record book as a halfback and is listed as one of the all-time campus greats. But on a form letter, asking Cracker rookies to list their athletic honors, Smith summed up his career in two words. "Played football."

LUKE APPLING, the Richmond manager, has had his club purchase Tom Lakos from Pueblo. Lakos was one of the best relief hurlers in the Southern a year ago when Mobile, in dire need of pitching, mysteriously disposed of him. . . . Bob Reidy, wealthy Chicago industrialist, has purchased the Fort Lauderdale franchise and is making plans to return it to Miami Beach. The Crackers probably will continue to do business with the club under a working agreement. . . . Vital Information Dept.: Atlanta's Bob Giggie was the only pitcher in the Southern Association to pitch one-hit and two-hit games last year.

And it won't be surprising if Earl Mann and Joe Engel pull off a deal within the next few weeks. It might even involve Country Brown. . . . Ray Crone, one of the brighter pitching prospects in the Milwaukee Brave system, cinched the Puerto Rican pennant for Caguas last week. Crone beat Santurce, improving his record to 6-1. . . . Speaking of the Winter Leagues, Bill Taylor, Southern's leading batter, took up right where he left off at Nashville. He recently rammed three homers for Magallanes in one game to set a Venezuelan League record and leads the loop with 15.

BOXING ROUNDUP

Billy Peacock Fights Nate Brooks for Title

NEW YORK, Feb. 7 (AP)—Billy Peacock, the North American bantam champion, defends his title Monday night at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway Arena in a 12-round match with Nate Brooks of Cleveland, the 1952 Olympic flyweight winner.

The bantam bout, to be seen on television (DuMont) in some sections of the country, is one of the better pairings on an ordinary boxing program this week. The world champion 118-pounder, of course, is Jimmy Carruthers of Australia.

Jimmy Carter of New York, the lightweight champion, meets Billy Lauderdale, Miami welterweight, in a 10-round non-title bout at Nassau, Bahamas, Monday night.

Joey Giambra of Buffalo, No. 8 challenger to middleweight champ Bobo Olson, boxes Italo Scortichini of Italy Friday at Madison Square Garden (ABC-radio and NBC-TV). Giambra was upset by Bobby Dykes at Miami, Jan. 6, in his last start while Scortichini fought a draw with Carmen Basilio in Miami, Jan. 16.

Middleweights also take over the Saturday night fights (ABC-TV) with Garth Panter of Salt Lake City meeting Jesse Turner of St. Louis at Salt Lake City. Panter will be making his first start since he was stopped for the first time in his 52-bout career, by Joey Giardello, Jan. 8.

ACC Plans League Meet

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Feb. 7 (AP)—Plans for an Atlantic Coast Conference meeting at the ACC basketball tournament March 4-6 in Raleigh, N. C., were made here today by the ACC's executive committee.

Prof. J. T. Penney, University of South Carolina faculty representative to the ACC and president of the conference, said "we just discussed preliminary plans for the Raleigh meeting at which we will make conference plans for beyond Jan. 1, 1955."

Currently, Wallace Wade is serving as commissioner of the ACC—he heads the Southern from which the new ACC drew its eight members—until that date. Also, an ACC contract to send its football champion to the Orange Bowl ends with next January's bowl game.

CONSTITUTION'S STAR OF WEEK

BASKET-BLASTING RAMSEY HAS OTHER TALENTS, TOO

By EDWIN POPE

Cliff Hagan may be ahead on headlines, but there's a Frank Ramsey Fan Club that figures its blond blaster is even more important than Hagan in Kentucky's colossal court successes.

FRANK RAMSEY

The Ramsey Club can ask pertinent questions on behalf of its rawboned hero.

Didn't St. Louis Coach Eddie Hickey call the 6-3, 190-pound guard the finest basketball player in America when he was only a junior?

Doesn't Ramsey bring the ball downcourt in Baron Adolph Rupp's controlled fast-break offense . . . and call the plays when the Wildcats operate from set positions?

Isn't he the squad's best rebounder, second (to Lou Tsioropolous) best defensive man, and leading layup artist?

In the face of these arguments, Hagan's 67 points in UK's last three games don't cut a bit more mustard than Ramsey's 63.

Ramsey is The Constitution's Southeastern Conference Star of the Week for the second time, only Dixie Dozen ace besides LSU's prodigious Bob Pettit to crash the classy circle more than once this season.

Kentucky scored around 100 points three times last week, and the Ramsey-Hagan axis was right in there. Ramsey hit 14 in the 99-48 rout of Georgia Tech on Monday; Hagan got 23. But Ramsey scored 29 in the 106-55 rout of Georgia and Hagan faded to 15. Then Ramsey got 20 to Hagan's 29 as Kentucky finished the week by crushing Georgia, 100-68. What didn't make the papers was Ramsey's defensive, rebounding and play-calling role.

And Ramsey's 20.4 average is little below Hagan's 23.3.

Anyway you look at it, they're co-captains any coach would give his college degree to own.

Besides Hagan, Ramsey had to beat out five hig hscorers for Star laurels during the week. Also-rans were:

Pettit, who pumped in 37 points in a 53-52 squeaker over Ole Miss and 66-47 triumph over Tulane.

Florida's Bob Emrick, a 40-point producer in futile (71-80 and 58-62) tries against Alabama and Tennessee.

Alabama's Jerry Harper, who totaled 40 points against Florida and the 82-61 victory over Tech.

Georgia's Murphy McManus, whose 27 points Saturday night gave him 42 in the two-game series against UK.

LONG WEEKENDS OFF SLATED IN AUBURN SPRING GRID DRILLS

Special to The Constitution

AUBURN, Ala., Feb. 7—Auburn opens spring football practice Tuesday in a unique, ready-for-anything manner.

Coach Shug Jordan said today the Plainsmen would practice only on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays to stay within NCAA and SEC rules which limit sessions to 20 within 36 days. And they may even continue to practice after the A-Day intrasquad game March 6.

"We'll have that A-Day game on March 6, no matter what," Jordan said. "But if rain knocks out any of our practices before then, we may have a couple of sessions after the 'windup'—to iron out mistakes made in the game, and so forth."

Seventy-five candidates, including 16 of 23 lettermen from the 1953 Gator Bowl team, will repogt Tuesday.

LANDER MOTORS SALESMAN

'Like Father Like Son' Is Story of Buddy Dunn

"Like father like son" is the best way to describe C. Frank (Buddy) Dunn Jr., member of the Lander Motors new car sales staff. Buddy is literally following in the footsteps of his father, who was a Dodge salesman for 15 years. Between them both, they have sold more than 1,000 cars.

A native of Atlanta, Buddy is 30, married, and lives with his wife and daughter, Gerta, age 7, at 944 Beecher Court, SW. He was in the Navy three years during World War II, and is now a member of the West End Baptist Church, W. D. Luckie Lodge No. 89, as well as a member of the Dodge 400 Club and the Plymouth Salesmens League.

Another in the new series of brief personality sketches about members of the Lander Motors sales staff.

Buddy is happy to explain that he is thoroughly "sold" on the automobiles he sells, Dodges and Plymouths, and one big reason is that he has tested Dodges himself in stock car competition. He's placed in several Lakewood events, driving a Red Ram V-8. Incidentally, Buddy passes along the information that a 1954 Dodge V-8, chosen for its power and performance, will pace the forthcoming 500-mile Speedway Race at Indianapolis this year.

Buddy invites you to visit him at the Lander Motors Showrooms, 25 North Ave., between the Peachtrees, and discuss trade and-or stock car racing. His telephone is VE. 6661; at home, AM. 3470.

STOCK CARS, TOO—C. Frank (Buddy) Dunn, member of the Lander Motors sales staff, is also an avid stock car enthusiast. See story.

Chas. S. Martin Presents 1954 Leadership Line

A new era has arrived in automatic home laundering. For women who want the cleanest clothes they've ever seen, who want greater convenience and ease than hitherto dreamed possible—the new 1954 Whirlpools hold forth glorious fulfillment.

Remarkable new developments team with breath-taking Whirlpool cabinet styling to give you the most efficient, most beautiful laundry appliances American ingenuity has yet produced.

Women everywhere are acclaiming three truly outstanding features of superiority which have been incorporated in the 1954 models. Charles S. Martin, president of Chas. S. Martin Distributing Co., Whirlpool's Georgia distributor, is enthusiastic in explaining these long-sought developments.

"Take, for instance, the Three-Temperature water selection control," said Mr. Martin. "It is fully automatic, and located on the beautifully colored, fully illuminated control panel of the washer. To operate, you simply set the indicator to any one of three temperatures, lukewarm, medium hot or hot, since two settings alone are not enough for today's fabrics, your choice. A fabric chart on the panel eliminates all guesswork as to the temperature of water to use for specific fabrics."

Whirlpool's Select-A-Level control, also on the panel, is another Whirlpool wonder which assures correct water level, automatically. Set indicator and colored light will show level selected . . . high is for a giant 9-lb. load, and low is for saving water on a small load up to 7 lbs. For even smaller loads, any water level desired may be selected, whether for a single garment or more, using only the amount of water needed.

Completing Whirlpool's trio of new and simple automatic controls is the Guide Lite. It automatically commands the washing operation through the various stages from start to finish. You can tell at a glance "what is happening" inside. Machine can be stopped and pieces added if necessary.

These new and wonderful automatic controls are in addition to Whirlpool automatic washer features like Suds Miser—the soap-saving feature, Agiflo washing action, Seven-Rinse cycle, Ultra-violet lamp which provides "hospital-clean" clothes, and the Five-Year transmission warranty that protects you from costly repairs.

The Whirlpool automatic washer's look-alike companion, the 1954 Whirlpool automatic dryer, also has a beautiful control panel of three new and unusual drying controls. (1) Full Range Heat control with three primary settings assures proper heat for all materials from woolens to nylons. (2) Delicate Fabric control provides controlled means for safe, proper drying of modern "miracle" fabrics. (3) Guide Lite follows drying operation from start to automatic stop, and tells at a glance how drying is progressing.

These great advances supplement Whirlpool Dryer features such as Therma-Flow drying breeze, Force-Flo exhaust of lint and moisture, Ultra-violet lamp, satin-smooth drying drum, and other exclusive developments.

Summing up, Mr. Martin said, "Tell your readers that if they want a washer that will wash clothes really clean, and a dryer that will dry with greater convenience and safety, then Whirlpool should be their choice. Together, or separately, they are appliances that are the most wanted by the most women. There are three stand-out models in the automatic washer line; dryers for gas or electricity, and every budget can be pleased."

New 1954 Whirlpool laundry appliances are now reaching the display rooms of dealers throughout Georgia. You are urged to see 1954 Whirlpool appliances before you buy. If name of dealer is unknown, or for further information and free descriptive literature on Whirlpool appliances, write or call the Charles S. Martin Distributing Company, 1000 Marietta St., NW, Atlanta, Georgia. Telephone ELgin 3392.

With great pride I wish to announce the installation in my office of the latest and most scientific Photo Electric measuring instrument of spinal examination known today.
When a spinal nerve is irritated, a congestion of the tiny blood vessels takes place in the skin along the path of that nerve. To locate that congestion is to locate the vertebrae to be adjusted. The skin is lighted up by two small bulbs of known candle power, one on each side of the spine. When the light passes over the congestion the ELECTRIC EYES see it and pick up the reflection of the congested area.
THE MAGIC EYES OF CHIROPRACTIC eliminate all guess work. They point to the exact area to be adjusted.

Carries Full Line of Mall Chain Saws

The Smith Chain Saw Co., one of Georgia's largest firms dealing exclusively in chain saws and attachments, has been purchased by W. J. Graham of Marianna, Fla., and has moved its Atlanta headquarters to a larger, more spacious property location at 507 Edgewood Ave., NE.

Announcement of the move was made by John J. Carlucci, general manager of the company. The firm formerly was located at 144 Edgewood Ave., NE. Mr. Carlucci also announced that Smith Chain Saw Company's overall expansion program includes plans to open more new stores at strategic points in the state to better serve timbermen and cutters throughout this region.

The Smith Chain Saw Co., now has a total of six stores and seven sub dealers in Georgia.

Atlanta store maintains a large parking court for convenience of customers.

With the 1954 timber cutting season only a short time away, Mr. Carlucci predicts that the new Model 2MG Mall Chain Saw, now being featured by all Smith Chain Saw Company branches, will be an immediate hit with timber cutting operators, large and small.

"This new Model 2MG Mall Chain Saw packs more horsepower per pound than any chain saw built," he stated. "Its ultra-modern design, plus amazing performance, makes it the most advanced saw on the market—backed by more than 30 years of manufacturing experience."

An outstanding feature of the Mall Model 2MG is its light weight and ease of handling. One man can cut tree after tree with ease—do the work of a two-man crew. It has a dynamic five horsepower engine packed into a 29-pound unit. It's designed for quick starting in any weather, and its rugged construction means long, trouble - free service.

U.S. Studies 'Lost' FBI Spy Reports

Brownell Hits 'Slipshod' Security

of civic and business leaders in Chicago last November.

Brownell charged at that time that President Truman had received the FBI report raising some questions about espionage activities on the part of White, then a high official in the Treasury Department. Despite the report, Truman proceeded to promote White to a post in the International Monetary Fund.

Truman later explained that he had gone ahead with the appointment of White to the international organization so that the FBI could keep White under surveillance.

"TERRIBLY SHOCKED"
Atty. Gen. Brownell

"JUST HEARD OF IT"

Brownell said tonight, in response to questions, that he had chosen the Chicago audience to make his disclosure because he had just heard about the FBI report a short time before.

"I thought of the quickest way I could tell this story to the American people," he said. The Chicago speech had already been scheduled, and he chose to include the information in his remarks, he said.

The disclosure caused a national sensation, and in the repercussions Brownell was criticized for the use he had made of the White information. Tonight Brownell said he felt he had made a "valuable contribution to the public welfare" in letting people know what had occurred.

"MISSING" DOCUMENTS

The account of finding the White document among "missing" Justice Department documents was told to the House group on Dec. 8 by Warren Olney, assistant attorney general.

Olney, who heads the Justice Department's Criminal Division, said a copy of the report on Communist spy rings had been sent to the office of Tom C. Clark, then attorney general, in 1945, but had not been seen by William Foley, head of the internal security section, until last September.

"It was the same way with the special report on Harry Dexter White," Olney testified. "That also was never seen and never reviewed by the internal security section.

"We are now, of course, going back and reviewing the individual cases of every one of these people who are mentioned before."

This rechecking was getting on as fast as possible, Olney said, so that the statute of limitations might not forestall prosecution.

Olney also told the House group that the department still hopes to bring Judith Coplon, a former Justice Department employe, to trial again on charges of passing secret government documents to a Soviet agent.

However, to the present time, officials were not certain there was enough usable evidence.

Appearing before the House subcommittee last Dec. 9, FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said his investigators were having more trouble running down Communists since they now operate mostly underground.

"LOYALTY" TESTS

He testified that it now takes nine or 10 agents to do a follow-up job that used to be done by a single man. It was all due, he said, to such government actions as prosecution of Communist leaders, and the imopsing of strict security procedures and "loyalty" tests.

"They have removed conspicuous means of personal identification such as moles; they have affected new manner of walking, have changed their standards, have avoided old habits and even have avoided old voices," the FBI chief reported.

He said Communist Party members no longer have membership cards issued to them. Party records are destroyed, and they try not to use the telephone.

"They communicate through couriers and avoid the use of written communications," said Hoover.

Writer Bodenheim, Darling of Roaring Twenties, Slain in Slum Room

30 years ago and continued to astound Villagers in his later years by his unabashed smooching with his wife in barrooms.

TINY ROOM

The tiny furnished room in which the Bodenheims lived was sparsely furnished. In one corner was the poet's tattered brief case in which he carried everything of value he owned.

Margulis said Bodenheim was "one of the greatest poets of the American imagist school and such poetry has its ups and downs."

Bodenheim had gone downhill rapidly after his success in the '20s. He had been arrested and hospitalized several times for drunkenness.

Bodenheim's room was padlocked from the outside. The bodies were found late this afternoon by Albert Luck, the landlord.

The bodies were fully clothed. The woman was found lying in bed with a coat over her head. She had been stabbed in the lower left back. Bodenheim had been shot once in the chest by a small caliber weapon, police said. His body was lying on the floor next to the bed.

SAWS LOCK

Luck said he had to saw through the padlock in order to enter the tiny, 8-by-9-foot room. He said the couple had moved into the dingy apartment about three weeks ago. He said he had last seen Bodenheim alive at about 4 p.m. Friday.

Medical Examiner Milton Halpern said the couple had been dead less than 24 hours.

Bodenheim's death climaxed years of hard luck which followed his days of success during the '20s. In 1935 he was picked up several times while wandering around Greenwich Village in an alcoholic stupor and was sent to Bellevue Hospital.

BLAMES WORK

"Due to overwork, I took a drop too much," Bodenheim said once when discharged from the hospital. "I can't wait to get back to my work. I am almost through with a proletarian novel. The hospital has been wonderful in its care of me, but I'm never coming back."

In 1940, Bodenheim was suspended from the bibliographies and indices project of the WPA pending an investigation to determine whether he lied when he signed an affidavit denying he was a member of the Communist Party.

Bodenheim said at the time he may have been a Communist in 1938, but no one could prove he was one then. However, Bodenheim generally was regarded as a man with little political sentiments of any color.

Shortly before he was taken to Bellevue in 1935 — he had been there previously in 1932 after stepping into a kettle of boiling bean soup while improvising a dance at a camping party — his friends were soliciting funds to send the writer West.

Bodenheim had been reported to be dying slowly from tuberculosis, but only $12 was collected.

In June, 1952, Bodenheim and his wife were evicted from their Greenwich Village apartment for non-payment of rent. The previous February he had been arrested as a vagrant for sleeping on a subway train, but the charge was dismissed after Bodenheim spent a day in jail.

The girl poet who took her life over Bodenheim was Virginia Drew, 21, who had fallen in love with the then-handsome Bodenheim in the '20s. Miss Drew asked him to criticize her work. He did so in two bruising words: "Sentimental slush." The next day her body was found in the Hudson River.

When Gladys Loeb, 18-year-old daughter of a Bronx physician, consulted Bodenheim on her ambition to become a poetess, the writer said her work was trash. The girl tried to commit suicide with Bodenheim's portrait before her.

A third girl who died in a 1928 subway wreck was found to be carrying several passionate love letters from Bodenheim. Among other things, he had written her: "I shall probably live a year or two at the most and then investigate the twinkling scandals in the sky."

Search Begun In $1,250,000 Fire's Rubble

ZION, Ill., Feb. 7 (AP)—Firemen began a search of rubble today for possible victims of a spectacular fire that caused $1,250,000 damages to the business district of this Chicago suburb, founded as a unique religious colony in 1901.

Authorities believed that all occupants of downtown structures razed by the fire escaped, but launched the search just in case. Three firemen were injured.

The fire, of undetermined origin, destroyed a block-long wooden building housing a department store and shops, then leaped across the street to raze a church, a curtain factory and another shop.

Zion fire fighters and departments from about 20 surrounding communities used so much water fighting the blaze that the local supply was nearly exhausted.

Huge tank trucks were pressed into service to haul water from neighboring towns.

Eugene Dennis Not in Solitary, Warden Says

A radio commentator reported last night that Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the Communist Party in the U.S., had been placed in solitary confinement at the Atlanta Penitentiary after a fist fight with another prisoner.

But Warden William H. Hiatt said the report was untrue. He said Dennis had never been placed in solitary confinement, that he has never been in a fight in the penitentiary.

In fact, the warden said, "Dennis has never caused any trouble at all."

Dennis was one of the 11 top communists convicted of conspiracy to overthrow the government.

Dwelling Bombed Second Time In a Month

An explosion late last night damaged the rear of a Negro dwelling at 647 Simmons St., NW, and blew bits of window glass into the kitchen where six persons were eating supper, police reported.

It was the second time in a month that the house had been "dynamited." Detectives C. M. Kennedy, L. N. Bradley and J. H. Cole reported. They said that on the previous occasion a hole was blown in the roof at the rear of the house less than a foot from a 12-inch hole which was ripped through the roof last night.

Police said all evidence of the type of explosive used was destroyed in the blast. They said, however, that it smelled like dynamite. The house is accupied by a Negro airman, Joseph Walker, and his wife Eula.

Kennedy said the explosive apparently was thrown over the house. He said it probably landed on the roof, blasting a hole in it and blasting out three windows.

No one was injured.

Winds Delay Liner

LE HARVE, France, Feb. 7—(AP)—The American superliner United States sailed for Southampton, England, tonight more than six hours behind schedule because of strong winds.

Pastor, Church Leader Accused of Bribe Try

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 7 (AP)—A preacher and a Sunday school teacher were arrested today on charges of attempting to bribe a key witness in the A. Elwood North murder trial.

Sgt. Grant Harden, head of the Lakeland Police Department, said the two were the Rev. Andrew W. Tampling, 25, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Fort Meade, and Stanley Myers, 60, of Lakeland. Myers is the father of Mrs. North.

North, former Lake Wales and Fort Meade undertaker, is awaiting execution for conviction of the 1951 slaying of Mrs. Betty Albritton, a cattlewoman and business associate of North.

Harden said he listened Saturday night in an adjoining room while the two men talked to W. A. Arnold about getting him to change the testimony he made at North's trial.

Arnold had tipped officers that the two were coming to see him.

Harden said the two men offered Arnold $3,000 to make an affidavit that he was "coerced and coached by prosecuting attorneys and sheriff's deputies before his testimony at the North trial."

At the trial, Arnold testified that as an apprentice undertaker at North's Fort Meade funeral home he had bathed blood from Mrs. Albritton's face in preparing her for burial. He also described the condition of her body.

The detective said the preacher and Sunday school teacher admitted offering Arnold money to get him to change his testimony.

"They said they did not give a bribe but it was just a token," Harden added.

The preacher and Mrs. North's father were released on $5,000 bonds.

North did not take the stand in his defense at the trial but contended earlier that Mrs. Albritton died of a heart attack and bruised herself while in the throes of the attack.

Mrs. Albritton was buried without a death certificate.

The well-to-do Mrs. Albritton left North all her property in a will.

Cow Kicks Prisoner, He Is Hospitalized

A 42-year-old city prisoner was admitted to Grady Hospital yesterday suffering severe leg injuries. Police who brought him in listed him as Pierce G. Bray.

They said Bray was injured early yesterday—when he was kicked by a cow.

Hindu Pilgrims Drown

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 7 (AP)—A boat carrying pilgrims to a Hindu religious festival capsized in the Ourna River near Surat, last night. Police said today only 23 survivors of about 125 persons aboard had been found.

Arrangements at Peak Of Beauty in February

By YOLANDE GWIN

Flower arrangements can reach their peak in prettiness during the month of February, for this short month is filled with festive days.

Mrs. Chester Wilson has come to the aid of Cupid in giving helpful as well as interesting description regarding a very beautiful arrangement which can be used this week in observance of the most romantic time of the year — St. Valentine's Day on Feb. 14.

SYMBOL OF LOVE

"Since Cupid is the symbol of love, a container featuring one could be used. A very popular arrangement is one suggesting a tilted heart," she says.

"Scotch broom and podocarpus make the curved top heart lines. White or red camellias or chrysanthemums, in varying stages of development, and green galax leaves finish the base of the tilted heart.

"This arrangement could be placed in the center of a luncheon table, toward the back on a red heart mat larger than those used under plates."

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

Mrs. Wilson, who serves as associate editor of Garden Gateways, the official publication of the Garden Club of Georgia, selects a picture to use each month for her Flower Arrangement page. The valentine subject used in the current issue was done by Mrs. Binion Jordan, a member of the Flower Arrangers Club of Georgia, and followed the suggestions by Mrs. Wilson as stated above.

CAMELLIA SHOWS

Georgians' camellia show date books should have the names of Sandersville, Eastman and Americus marked off for Feb. 13-14.

Mrs. Wilmer Newsome is president of the Sandersville Garden Club which sponsors its show in the agricultural building on the fairgrounds. All clubs in the county are joining in the plans.

"Queen of the Garden" is the theme for the Eastman show to be held in co-operation with the American Camellia Society at the Community House. Mrs. Chester Saunders and Mrs. John Brown are serving as co-chairmen.

The Federated Garden Clubs of Sumter County, in co-operation with the American Camellia Society will sponsor a show in Americus. "Valentine Camellias" is the show theme and Miss Martha Cobb is chairman. It takes place in the recreation building.

Lady Makins 'Fitting' Wife Of Diplomat

By JEAN ROONEY

Is Lady Makins always a lady?

Her Britannic Majesty's ambassador to the United States, Sir Roger Makins, always the diplomat, wouldn't say.

But the six-foot-three ambassador, visiting in Atlanta this weekend without his wife, assured she is "a quite fitting and proper diplomat's mate" even though she is an American.

Questioned on the qualifications and requisites a statesman's wife must have, the keen-humored Britisher declared he "couldn't speak officially" but would "have a go at it."

PREVIOUS TRAINING

His wife, he explained, had previous diplomatic training when he married her 20 years ago.

As Alice Davis, daughter of the U.S. governor general of the Philippines, she had served as official hostess of Malacana Palace in Manila for a year or more during the 1920s.

Lady Makins is an "all-the-time" hostess to international gatherings at the British Embassy in Washington, Sir Roger confirmed.

"But giving parties at the embassy is no different from anywhere else," he declared.

Has her ladyship ever placed the wrong person by the wrong person at a state dinner party?

"Not yet," said the Queen's ambassador, "but we're always afraid of it."

PROTOCOL STRAIGHT

Lady Makins has a social secretary to help keep protocol straight.

"And we all pitch in for big affairs," the ambassador reported.

Does a statesman's wife need to be a linguist?

No, and her husband didn't have to coach her in the Queen's English.

How about Mrs. Makins' knowledge of British history, did she have to brush up on it after her marriage?

"No. In fact, she has made me learn American history," quipped Sir Roger.

CUPID'S STYLE FROM HEARTS TO DARTS

French Whipped Pastries With Cherry Filling

Cherry-Coconut Tarts Steal Hearts, Pallets

By JEANNE HIGGINS

These Valentine pastries carry on Cupid's traditional style from hearts to darts. With simplicity in mind, the French whip method for light, flaky pastry is a treat in itself.

7. Pick up and work into a smooth dough; shape into 2 rounds. 8. Roll each separately between two 12-inch squares of waxed paper into a circle about ⅛-inch thick. 9. Peel off top paper and cut out small heart shapes with heart - shaped cutter. 10. Remove from paper and place on ungreased baking sheet. Prick with fork. 11. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) 10-15 min., or until pastry is honey-gold in color. 12. Remove from sheet to wire rack to cool. 13. Repeat with other half of dough. There should be about 48 hearts in all. 14. Spread a layer of filling on 32 hearts, then put together in pairs. Top with remaining 16 hearts. 15. Spread a little of the plain cream filling in center of each top and decorate with an arrow made with strips of cherry. Makes 16 pastries.

CHERRY - COCONUT FILLING

1. Soften a 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese in mixing bowl about 10 min., cream with spoon. 2. Add 2 tablespoons sugar, dash of salt, ¼ teaspoon almond extract; mix. 3. Whip ½ cup heavy cream until stiff; fold into cheese mixture.

4. Take out a little of the mixture for garnish, then add 2 tablespoons each finely cut, well-drained maraschino cherries and finely cut shredded coconut; blend. 5. Makes filling for 16 pastries.

Budget Calories To Lose

By IDA JEAN KAIN

The calorie role in the reducing story fascinates overweights, for calorie subtraction sends the pointer on the scales downward.

However, while calories are a measure of fuel, they do not measure the quality of the diet. To insure a feeling of well being as weight is lost, the nutrition essentials must be included daily, even though the calories are cut to 1,000 or 1,200 daily.

People ask the dietitian to make it clear just what the dangers are in reducing. So let's do some straight thinking. If you figure that because you have considerable fat to draw on for fuel, it matters little what you eat so long as you keep within your calories, you are reasoning from a false premise, for the body does not run on fuel alone.

Even the well nourished body does not have any effective reserve of proteins, minerals and vitamins to draw on since these materials are not stored up in the extra pounds of body fat.

The danger in reducing lies in leaving out the protective nutrients needed to make good the wear and tear of daily living.

Wilkes Clock Chases Worry

It was one of those days when the air was thick with the problems of people. You could see them swimming around like dust motes in the sunshine.

A woman—a decent, intelligent, law-abiding woman—had lost her job and gone hungry for a few days and then landed in jail for 15 days because she had eaten a meal at a drugstore soda fountain knowing that she couldn't pay for it. The soda fountain attendant said it was not the first of such meals the woman had eaten there, but I couldn't help it, when they told me she spent 15 or 20 minutes in the telephone booth after she had eaten, I felt like I was right in there with her, sweating it out, dreading to face the manager.

As this is written, she's still in jail but by the time it comes out I hope humane forces will have been at work and she will be free with a chance at a job and a decent living again.

Anyhow, there was that to worry about. Also the man who called up and said he was in a mood to quit supporting the Community Chest because of the case of a woman and nine children who were starving to death in the most awful poverty within a few doors of the Chest office. (Turned out the woman had not applied to a Community Chest agency; and when we called the main office, they promised to get somebody right out.)

But you still worry about the woman and the children, and you still feel desperately weary from the bludgeoning that life is giving other people. At least I did until someone handed me a little story under a Washington, Ga., dateline. The story, written by Mrs. Kenneth Boyd, The Constitution's intrepid Washington correspondent, didn't make the state news of the day but we all read and enjoyed it because it was such peaceful kind of little story.

"Time is out of joint in Washington," wrote Mrs. Boyd. "So much so that even the grand jury of the present Wilkes Superior Court has taken cognizance of it and recommended that something be done.

"For months," went on Mrs. Boyd, "the people of the town have suspected that something was wrong about the order of their lives. All at once the Wilkes County sun began rising and setting hours before or after schedule, according to the town's old reliable clock atop the courthouse which for a hundred years has announced the hours.

"Hurrying through their midday meals, housewives would find that business places on the square had not even opened their doors. A banker appeared at his desk at noon instead of his usual elegant hour of 10 o'clock. The city librarian closed up and went home three hours early.

"There is no conjecturing where this state of things might have ended but for the Grand Jury, which with the stroke of a pen restored normalcy once again. This was accomplished through recommendation from four of the committee on inspection of the courthouse, which reads: 'The courthouse clock is in poor condition and does not keep any kind of time. It is recommended that the clock be repaired and placed in good running condition even if it is necessary to buy new clock works.' "

Miss Clark Is Married

Mrs. Louise Christy Clark announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Marjorie Elizabeth Clark, to George C. Andrews, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Andrews, which took place at a noon ceremony solemnized recently at Inman Park Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Stanford Parnell officiating.

The couple was attended by Mrs. William D. Lyle as matron of honor, and Dr. Luther A. Sowell Jr. as best man.

Since her graduation in 1950 from Bass High School, the bride has been employed by the First National Bank.

Mr. Andrews, also a graduate of Bass High School, is employed by Latex Construction Co.

Your Stars Today

DAILY GUIDE — It would be best today to get to work early and keep your own counsel. It should be an excellent day in which to work but, if one is inclined to seek escape, the results will be confusion and disorganization. Don't be influenced by what you hear until you have checked with the sources. There seems to be a continuation of a rather romantic trend begun last week. This seems a natural leading up to St. Valentine's Day, so you might think about a little remembrance for your one and only, or plan a party or social outing for your loved ones or friends. In the meantime keep busy like the ant and say little today and tomorrow. Absentmindedness or muddle-headedness can prevent efficiency.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, AQUARIUS! You are indeed fortunate to be on the receiving end of some of fortune's smiles. Even if you fail to see benefits, you can be sure that you are being protected in some way from ill effects of circumstances which at another time would be very uncomfortable. This should be a period of unusual accomplishment if you have a talent for any of the arts.

A Rhyme a Day

"While the majority of young couples begin their married life without financial assistance from either family, those are fortunate, indeed, who share the benefit of experiences gained by their parents."—Article quote.

Quite often you hear people say . . . "don't worry, love will find a way" . . . when speaking of home newlyweds . . . who join their hearts, their hands and heads . . . and such small means as they possess . . . in hopes of finding happiness.

And it is true that love will find . . . a way, but often it's the kind . . . that is so rugged . . . they quit before they try enough . . . The way young lovers visualized . . . rolls on beneath unclouded skies . . where grass is green and flowers bloom . . . and in their thoughts there is no room . . . for any doubt or fear or dread . . . all of which is somewhere ahead.

And it, perhaps, is just as well . . . they're captured in love's magic spell . . . and for a little while may stand . . . like strangers in some wonderland . . . to rest awhile and catch their breath . . . before they work themselves to death . . . and, usually, wind up about . . . as lost as when they started out.

"There goes Marvin Glutz, dear—he hasn't spoken to me in seven years!"

Solution to Saturday's Puzzle

Goren ON Bridge

BY CHARLES GOREN

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠K6 ♥A952 ♦AQ7 ♣AJ108

The bidding has proceeded:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | Pass | 1 spade | Double |
| Pass | 2 clubs | Pass | ? |

What do you bid now?

A.—This is a close choice between two no trump and three clubs, but our own preference is three clubs. Two no trump appears to be a slightly drastic bid with only 18 points and a partner who may have nothing. If partner makes any move over your raise to three clubs, you are then in strategic position to contract for game.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠KQ4 ♥K7543 ♦AQ ♣J104

The bidding has proceeded:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 club | Pass | 1 heart | Pass |
| 2 no trump | Pass | ? | |

What do you bid now?

A.—You have a good opening bid yourself with a shade to spare, and since partner has opened and jumped, there should be a slam. That is all you have to know, and since a no trump contract suits your hand, there is nothing further to do than just to utter the words "six no trump." As a check, refer to the point count. You have 15 points. Partner has at least 19, with some sort of fit. The total of 34 is convincing enough for a slam.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠AK752 ♥KJ83 ♦K53 ♣2

The bidding has proceeded:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 spade | Pass | 1 no trump | Double |
| Pass | 2 hearts | Pass | Pass |
| ? | | | |

What do you bid now?

A.—Tho partner has promised no great strength, he nevertheless is presumed to have an evenly balanced hand, and is not apt to have any length in spades. You therefore have splendid defense against the adverse contract, and a penalty double is recommended. The king of diamonds is somewhat more impressive by virtue of its location over the opponent who has shown strength.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠KQ965432 ♥J5 ♦84 ♣J

The bidding has proceeded:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 3 spades | Pass | 4 hearts | Pass |
| ? | | | |

What do you bid now?

A.—Having given an adequate description of your holding on the opening bid, you should not undertake to override partner. You have soce support for hearts; he may have none whatever for spades. He knows that you consider your hand of use only with spades as trump; nevertheless, he has chosen to bid four hearts. Without information to the contrary, it is our practice to assume that partner knows what he is doing. Pass.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠AKQ4 ♥75 ♦KJ ♣J10532

The bidding has proceeded:

| East | South | West | North |
|---|---|---|---|
| 4 hearts | Pass | Pass | 4 spades |
| Pass | ? | | |

What do you bid now?

A.—Five spades. Partner must have exceptional values to be able to compete at this level with a suit that is at best jack high. Your hand should produce a minimum of four tricks for him so that a contract of five should be reasonably safe even if partner happens to be romancing. The chance for a slam should not be overlooked.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠72 ♥82 ♦Q7543 ♣AKQ10

The bidding has proceeded:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 spade | Pass | 2 diamonds | Pass |
| 4 diamonds | Pass | ? | |

What do you bid now?

A.—You have very close to the equal of an opening bid. Partner has opened the bidding and jumped, which spells slam. The recommended call is five clubs. If partner merely returns to five diamonds, you may retire, but he should be given some inducement to consider a slam.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠J7 ♥AK1062 ♦AK54 ♣42

The bidding has proceeded:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 heart | Pass | 1 spade | Pass |
| 2 diamonds | Pass | 2 spades | Pass |
| ? | | | |

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner must have a good spade suit to repeat it in the face of an announced two-suiter by you. Since you have considerably more than an opening bid, you should give him one more chance by raising to three spades.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠98542 ♥Q ♦972 ♣9543

The bidding has proceeded:

| West | North | East | South |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 heart | 1 no trump | Double | ? |

What do you bid?

A.—This, to be sure, is not an appealing situation from your standpoint, but there is nothing for you to do but permit partner to work out his own salvation. A rescue bid of two spades would be ill-timed. Partner may fully intend to bail out with two diamonds or two clubs, and any bid by you would force him one level higher than he had intended to go. Pass.

Mother Earth Loves To Twitch In California

WASHINGTON — In a world jarred by more than 20,000 recorded earthquakes a year, the United States — except for its West Coast—stands as a stable land seldom disturbed by surface upheavals.

Most Americans thus know earthquakes only by such newspaper accounts as recently told of minor tremors around Knoxville, Tenn., and Reading, Pa.

In 1953 not a single major temblor rocked the country; all 700 tremors noted on the 100 U.S. seismographs were quakes of little consequence, the National Geographic Society says.

The greatest wrecker in American history was the quake that wrenched San Francisco in 1906. Seven hundred lives were lost, and fire razed the city. Nearby, the land slipped 21 feet sideways.

If a few places does the face of Mother Earth twitch more regularly than in California. In 1949, for example, 200 oil wells were sheared off near San Pedro Bay.

Underground forces have agitated the Southwest too, and given rise to a happy-ending earthquake story—although scientists don't vouch for its authenticity:

A golf championship was at stake in Arizona. One contestant had to sink a long putt on the 18th green to win. He nudged the ball straight toward the hole but it paused agonizingly near the lip of the cup. Just then the earth quivered. The ball plopped in. And the putter was declared champion.

Gloria's Mother Afraid To Face Life at 40

Gloria G., aged 17, is a high school senior.

"Dr. Crane, I don't know what to do about Mother," she began, and tears welled up in her eyes.

"I hate to admit such a thing but Mother has a bad reputation with men. However, Daddy doesn't seem to realize that anything is wrong.

"But she runs around with different men and often comes home drunk. We know, too, that she has been immoral with different men.

"I urged Daddy to move, which we did last year, but Mother started all over again in our new neighborhood.

"I have two married sisters. They lived down Mother's bad reputation and both of them have wonderful husbands.

"But it is difficult for me because boy friends always try to get fresh right away, thinking I am like Mother.

"I slap the boy and tell him he can't call on me again till he learns how to behave. But is there any way I could show Mother the harm she is doing to all of our family?"

COSMETIC ADDICTS

I tried to encourage Gloria in her own virtuous behavior, but didn't tell her that her mother is a very difficult problem.

For her mother is now 40 and possessed of a phobia against growing old.

In her terror about birthdays, she seeks oblivion at the taverns. Then she isn't at all particular about her male escorts.

While half sober she prefers younger men and to tempt their interest, she daubs on paint and perfume in big gobs.

She is entirely wrapped up in herself, with little thought for anybody else, even including her own children. Such a person is a psychopathic personality.

She became a cosmetic addict in the middle teens. Many other girls also grow idolatrous at that time, for they worship unduly at the shrine of a pretty face.

Ultimately, they become so addicted to admiring their own reflection in the mirror that they think of nothing else except the adulation they can command.

They constantly play to men, subconsciously and consciously. They crave flirtations and male whistles.

They live chiefly for masculine attention. So they become terror-stricken at the thought of growing old. Their 40th birthday scares them into hiding behind a liquor bottle.

PARENTS, BEWARE

During the middle teens, young people are capable of high idealism. They are easily recruited for missionary activity, and want to make the world a better place in which to live.

But thousands of teen-agers get into selfish eddies, off this wholesome main current of idealism. As a result, they become enamoured of SELF.

By the time they are 40, they are then such hardened egoists that even a Billy Sunday can scarcely crack the surface of their selfishness.

A psychopath has little concern for his own children or his parents or anybody else save HIMSELF.

And that's the trouble with Gloria's mother. Religious appeals and talk about her maternal obligation to her daughters, doesn't phase her.

Frequently, erring wives can be won back by husbands who use the sexual techniques described in the various bulletins offered you via this column.

But Gloria's mother is not just a normal woman with maladjustment in the sexual realm. Her problem is chronic selfishness that demands men's attention to flatter her vanity. It's much like addiction to dope.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VanDELLEN

CitesTonsils, Adenoids As Infection Barrier

During the last month I have had several calls from parents who were advised that one of their children needed to have tonsils and adenoids removed. Mother or Dad was in a quandary because of having heard that these operations are no longer done. One woman even went so far as to criticize the physician for suggesting the procedure.

Physicians have discovered that these organs play a role in preventing infection and should not be taken out in wholesale fashion because of enlargement only. This does not mean that the structures never should be removed.

When the parents mentioned were questioned in more detail, it developed that the glands were doing more harm than good because they were harboring infection that endangered the health of the youngsters. In each instance, tonsilectomy was necessary.

When should the tonsils be removed and when left in? Most physicians agree that ordinary enlargement is not a good reason for removal. But when they meet in the midline and interfere with eating and breathing, surgery is in order.

The same can be said when the child experiences repeated attacks of tonsilitis. Here the glands are susceptible to infection and, with each bout, the body suffers and runs the risk of starting a comparable infection in some other site.

Occasionally, removal of normal appearing tonsils is recommended because there is reason to believe that the organ harbors a focus of infection which would explain weight loss and lack of energy.

The adenoids are located behind the soft palate in the vault of the throat. When enlarged, they often block the passageway between nose and throat and encroach upon the openings of the eustachian tubes that lead to the ears.

When enlargement is chronic, in addition to the effect upon breathing, the swollen tissues interfere with hearing and may encourage ear infection. Removal has a dramatic effect.

Cartersville To Relieve School Chief Brandon

The Cartersville Board of Education, in a recent meeting, failed to re-elect city school superintendent W. H. Brandon, who has been connected with Cartersville schools since 1937.

John Hodge, school board chairman, refused to comment yesterday on the reason for the board's action.

Brandon, likewise, had a "no comment at this time."

W. H. Bradley, new member of the school board, said, "there were several reasons but they aren't being publicized."

Hodge said that Brandon's contract has until June to run and that noaction on a successor is expected until then.

Ice Show Opening Is Big Hit

By PAUL JONES

It's the tops.

That best sums up the 1954 production of Holiday on Ice, the ice-skating spectacle which currently is playing its ninth annual engagement at the Municipal Auditorium.

The new revue which features the most elaborate wardrobes ever worn by the skaters and some of the most picturesque production numbers and comedy opened Saturday and Sunday before standing room audiences whose explosive enthusiasm was thoroughly justified.

Few shows of which compliment this city with annual visits boast the variety that does this big, bladed carnival. The spectacle is unmatched by the circus. The choreography, much of which, this year, is based on story book and outstanding musical patterns, is ballet at its best. The comedy is unrivaled for speed and originality. Costumed to perfection and scored with good music, some original and some familiar tunes, adds up to one of the top attractions on our calendar.

The 1954 show seems to have more zip and sparkle than any preceding show.

The show will be presented each night at 8:30 p.m. through Feb. 17 with matinees Wednesdays, Saturday and Sunday.

Man Dies as TV Tower Snaps Off

WILLIAMSPORT, Md., Feb. 7 (AP)—A man lashed to a television antenna tower with a safety belt crashed to his death today when the long pole snapped off.

The victim was identified by state police as Thomas W. Thompson, 29-year-old employe of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co.

Trooper Edward Crowther said Thompson was working on top of the 50-foot tower at the home of his father-in-law. Two supporting wires snapped, causing the tower to break off. The county medical examiner said death was due to a fractured skull.

2 Students Place Fields In Burglary

Two Clemson students last night said they were "reasonably sure" a man captured, after he had killed a DeKalb officer and wounded another, was the same person who took $18 from them in a barracks burglary at Clemson early Friday.

Cadets Tom Drew and Tom Bookhart come to Decatur yesterday with Sheriff Eddie Weathers of Oconee County, S.C., and Clemson Constable Henry Cureton to get a look at Jennings Fields.

Later yesterday officers at DeKalb County police headquarters said they did not know whether Fields had made any statement concerning the fatal shooting of Patrolman James L. Mize.

Mize was killed instantly and Patrolman J. R. Davis was wounded in his stomach and left arm.

LIVED AT CHAMBLEE

They had arrested Fields, 30, a resident of Chamblee, at the request of Charlotte, N.C., police for questioning about a recent series of dormitory burglaries at Davidson College, N.C.

En route to jail, Fields grabbed a pistol from Mize and shot him first, police were told by an eyewitness, Grady C. Workman of Decatur. The squad car in which they were riding plunged off the road.

Davis, following in another automobile, ran to Mize's aid and was shot down, Workman related. Then Fields fled in the squad car but was arrested by state patrolmen near Norcross shortly afterwards.

DORMITORY ROBBERIES

Officers said no attempt has been made to question Fields about details of the shooting and about dormitory robberies at Davidson College and at Clemson College in South Carolina.

"We're letting him rest up a little before we question him," officers told newsmen.

Davis is a patient at the Veterans Hospital near Chamblee. Doctors reported yesterday that his condition is not critical.

Funeral services for Mize will be held at 4 p.m. today in Turner's Trinity Chapel. The Rev. J. W. Fields will officiate. Burial will be in East View Cemetery.

J. B. Porter Found Slain; Gun Nearby

James B. Porter, 27, truck driver for an Atlanta margarine manufacturer, was found shot to death early Sunday morning in his home at 1098 Vaud Ave., NE. Sgt. L. L. Hause and Det. W. S. Acree, of the Homicide Squad, reported.

Police said Porter's wife, the former Miss Myra June Keenum, told them they had an argument earlier, and that when she heard the newspaper delivery boy come to the front door, her husband suddenly leaped from bed and took a pistol from a drawer.

She said she ran into a hallway, and then heard a shot. Police said Porter's body was lying on the floor between the dining room and bathroom, a bullet hole in the temple. The pistol, describey by police as an old relic, lay at his feet.

A coroner's inquest will be held, probably Monday, police said.

Besides his wife, he is survived by a stepdaughter, Miss Shelia June Johnson; his mother, Mrs. Maggie Porter, of Atlanta; three sisters, Mrs. E. L. Walden, East Point; Mrs. R. Lunkenheimer, Atlanta; Mrs. G. Ethridge, Los Angeles, Calif.; two brothers, Clifford and David Porter, Atlanta, and a half brother, Aubrey Dunson, Durham, N.C.

Funeral plans will be announced by Paul T. Donehoo.

Shooting Officer By Mistake, He Faces Trial Here

An Atlanta storekeeper is scheduled for trial at 7:30 a.m. Monday in Municipal Court on disorderly conduct charges in connection with the wounding of a policeman he mistook for a burglar.

D. P. Moore, who lives in the rear of a store he operates at 875 Flat Shoals Ave., SE., said he fired a pistol through the rear door early yesterday when he overheard someone at the door. The bullet struck Ptl. F. A. Turner Jr., 27, in the left leg.

Turner said he was checking the door to be sure it was securely locked because a burglary had occurred there the night before. The patrolman added he was unaware that living quarters were in the rear of the store.

Both Moore, who is a semi-invalid, and Turner described the incident as "regrettable."

Talmadge Hails Scouts As Communism Block

Gov. Herman Talmadge hailed the Boy Scouts of America yesterday as "a great bulwark against communism," as he addressed a Capitol ceremony opening National Scout Week.

The governor accepted on behalf of the people of Georgia a plaque for the replica of the Statue of Liberty which the Boy Scouts placed on the Capitol grounds in 1951.

The plaque, which was given to the scouts by the Georgia B'nai B'rith organization, is inscribed with verses of the poem by Emma Lazarus, written for the original statue. It was unveiled by Eagle Scout Ben S. Read, 390 Blackland Rd., NW.

In paying tribute to the scout movement, the governor declared the U.S. can "never succumb to the godless dogma of Communism as long as its youth has the advantage of such patriotic training."

The governor made note that where totalitarian governments gain control their first acts are to destroy movements like the Boy Scouts.

Some 5,000 Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Explorers marched through Atlanta before the ceremony.

Dr. Irving H. Goldstein, president of Georgia B'nai B'rith, presented the plaque to the scouts. It was accepted by William C. Wardlaw Jr., president of Atlanta Area Scout Council, and then by Governor Talmadge.

This week marks the 44th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America.

Country Club Goers Rise Attributed to Ike's Golfing

By JIM PINSON

Americans, perhaps inspired by a golf-minded President, are beating a path to country clubs despite rising membership dues.

"There are more club goers now than at any time in this nation's history and many clubs have long membership waiting lists," says Carl J. Jehlen, president of the Club Managers Assn. of America.

Jehlen, manager of the Baltusrol Country Club of Springfield, N.J., will preside over the CMAA's 27th annual convention which opens at the Biltmore Hotel this morning.

700 DELEGATES HERE

More than 700 delegates from all over the nation, Canada and Hawaii are registered for the three-day meeting. They represent country clubs, athletic clubs, college athletic organizations, yacht clubs and many social and civic clubs.

Americans in postwar years have shown a preference for family-type clubs, Jehlen, a club manager since 1932, said.

"No longer can the wife complain that her husband spends all his spare time at the club while she and the children stay at home. Clubs now provide activities for every member of the family."

The CMAA president admitted that rising costs are causing club managers and officials some concern. He said convention delegates are expected to exchange ideas on ways to reduce expenses so that further dues boosts won't be necessary.

VISITS TO AUGUSTA

He said that he feels that President Eisenhower's interest in golf and his visits to the Augusta National Golf Club have stimulated interest both in the game and in country club membership.

Convention speakers will include William A. Dawson, of the Toronto Skating Club; Daniel Layman of Philadelphia, and Horton Smith, famed golfer and president of the Professional Golfers' Assn.

Armand C. Chapeau, general manager of Druid Hills Golf Club, is chairman of the club managers' educational program and J. R. Taylor, manager of the Capital City Club, is convention chairman.

'Improving' After Artery Transplant

Paul Gentry of Macon was reported "improving" tonight at Crawford W. Long Hospital after a rare operation in which his blood flow was routed through a borrowed artery.

"He is getting along pretty well—he is improving," a spokesman for the hospital said.

Asked if he is out of danger, the spokesman replied, "Well, I wouldn't go so far as to say that, but he is improving."

Gentry, 57, was suffering with a blood clot near his heart. Surgeons replaced a damaged section of his main artery with a part of a dead person's artery supplied by the refrigerated "artery bank" at Emory University.

The operation required 10 hours.

Bouncy Search Flights Routine for CAP Pilots

By JOE RICKENBAKER

It's not easy to ride a bucking plane down into valleys and over towering mountains while at the same time staring at the ground until your eyes ache, looking for any small clue that might lead to the discovery of a wrecked aircraft.

Treacherous air currents whip up the side of mountains and suck down into valleys. There's always the chance that a downdraft, like a magnet, may pull the light plane spinning into the ground.

But it's all in a day's work for Georgia civilian airmen—members of the Georgia wing of the Civil Air Patrol.

SATURDAY MISSION

Take, for example, a mission Saturday.

The wing was notified that a gray Piper Tri-Pacer, carrying Herbert C. Westphal of Manitowoc, Wisc., and his 13-year-old son, had been missing from Owensboro, Ky., for four days and was believed down in the rugged mountain country of north Georgia.

An order came from the Air Rescue Service of the U.S. Air Force. It was simple . . . find them.

The word came in Friday night. Charts were prepared. Pilots and observers were contacted.

Early Saturday morning 17 small aircraft climbed from the Rome airport after a briefing by Lt. Col. Fred Gorman, wing operations officer.

ROUGH TERRAIN

Each plane carried a pilot and observer. Men who had been riding a desk all week were now riding a small dipping, bucking machine over some of the roughest terrain in Georgia.

The 17 planes, representing Atlanta squadrons one and two, Marietta squadron, Lockheed squadron, Griffin squadron and the Conley communications squadron, were assigned to cover roughly 3,700 square miles of tree-covered mountains and treacherous valleys.

The area began at the Tennessee-Alabama line and continued east some 90 miles and south as "far as necessary."

Most of the pilots used the "latter search" method, flying straight lines back and forth across areas designated for them. However, due to the mountainous terrain, the method was often varied by "contour searching," circling high peaks and flying through twisting valleys along the contour of the land.

GROUND UNITS

As the privately owned planes and tiny L-16 observation crafts, on loan from the Air Force, bounced through the turbulent skies, mobile ground units stood by at Rome and Fulton County airports.

The Georgia fliers, who last year had a record of nearly one million air miles on Air Force missions without an accident, did not find the missing plane.

The bodies of Westphal and his son were taken from the wreckage found in Tennessee by the Civil Air Patrol there.

The search ended, the small planes began the trip back to Atlanta to fuel up again. Yesterday was another day and they were to go on a Ground Observation Corps mission before returning to their desks today.
